WHERE THOUSANDS ATTENDED MASS SAID IN THE OPEN AIR BY INTERNATIONALLY RENOWNED CARDINALS

This is the first panoramic photograph of the International Eucharistic Congress in Soldiers' Field, Chicago, to reach the East. At the left there was a massive altar, rising more than 140 feet above the great throng. At the right is one of the two big colonades of the stadium proper. The crowds which are attending the Eucharistic Congress are said to be the largest which ever attended a religious meeting in the history of the world. People are there from every part of the world.

NEW YORK STOCK MARKET IS LOWER

New York stock market closed lower today. The heaviness started with rather sharp declines in the motor group, taken in some quarters to be a belated reflection of the Ford motor prices out. The early afternoon saw a time when the tape was the dullest in weeks, then another heavy selling period opened. U. S. Steel was off over 2 and General Motors lowered over 4 from the day's highs. The list showed many recessions.

CHICAGO saw yesterday a great gathering of women, perhaps the greatest in the world's history. One hundred and seventy-five thousand women assembled for a special religious service in a stadium and heard five thousand nuns singing in a choir of fifteen thousand voices.

GOVERNOR AL SMITH of New York, visiting the Eucharistic Congress, told Chicago that New York prides itself on being "free of bigotry" and joked about the frequent presidential nominations offered to him at the Congress. He said to one gathering that nominated him, "I got that nomination this morning."

IN SEATTLE, George W. Olvany, head of Tammany Hall, told reporters, "Al Smith will be the Democratic nominee for President in 1928, and will carry this nation by storm on two vital issues."

The two issues, according to Mr. Olvany, are the World Court and the Volstead Act. The chief of Tammany Hall predicts that Governor Smith "will carry this nation by storm on two vital issues."

WOMAN PASTOR FLEES KIDNAPERS DEMANDING HALF MILLION RANSOM

Douglas, Ariz., June 23 (A.P.).—Police announced today that the woman who collapsed and was taken to a hospital here was positively identified by William F. McCafferty, editor of the Douglas Dispatch, as Aimee Semple McPherson, evangelist, of Los Angeles, who was reported drowned there last May.

Mrs. Minnie Kennedy, mother of Mrs. McPherson, also identified her.

The woman told the chief of police that she had been kidnaped, taken across the Mexican border and had escaped from her captors. HER ESCAPE.

She said that a man named "Steve" and a woman named "Rose" had carried her off to hold her for ransom. She believed that her prison was somewhere near Mexicali, immediately across the border from Calexico, Calif., for she had heard the man and woman referring to Mexicali in their talk.

Two days ago, she said, she escaped and walked for several miles until she was picked up by some Americans, who took her to Douglas.

There she went to the hospital, where she is in a state of collapse.

The police described the woman as having long, bronze-colored hair, while McCafferty asserted that in every way she answered the description of Mrs. McPherson.

BYRD WELCOMED BACK BY NEW YORK THRONGS

New York, June 23 (I.N.S.)—Escorted by a reception committee and a congressional committee headed by Representative Clifton E. Woodrum, Virginia, Commander Richard E. Byrd, U. S. N., hero of the North Pole flight, was welcomed home at the City Hall today.

Huge crowds gathered to greet the airman and his pilot, Floyd Bennett. Aeroplanes circled over Manhattan's skyscrapers in welcome.

Byrd and his party arrived on the steamer Chantier, the ship that carried him to the polar regions for his successful flight. The Chantier anchored off Quarantine and was met by the city's official welcoming party on the Macon.

Escorted by a number of other vessels, decorated with flags and bunting, the Macon made the trip up the bay to the pier, with the American aviators standing on the upper deck.

The entire harbor was in an uproar. Ferryboats tied down their siren cords, adding to the bedlam of welcome.

Hub Pilgrims Prepare for Glorious Climax

By JAMES WALSH,
(Staff Correspondent of the Boston Evening American with Boston Pilgrims at Eucharistic Congress.)

Chicago, June 23.—Another enormous throng assembled inside and outside the Stadium at Soldiers' Field today for the opening of the fourth general meeting of the Congress, set aside as Higher Education Day. His Eminence Cardinal Dougherty of Philadelphia presided.

James Walsh

The Boston and New England delegations were on hand in large numbers when the exercises began, shortly after ten.

The addresses before the solemn pontifical mass was begun were delivered by Cardinal Dougherty; the Most Rev. George Gauthier, D. D., Archbishop of Montreal; Joseph Scott, K. S. G., of Los Angeles, Cal., and His Eminence John Cardinal Czernoch, Archbishop of Strigonia and Primate of Hungary.

SCHOOL STUDENTS PAY EUCHARISTIC HOMAGE

Chicago, June 23.—Under a blazing sun, more than 60,000 students of parochial high schools, academies and universities participated today in the higher education day services of the eucharistic congress.

Tens of thousands of other persons made up the vast multitude of 200,000 worshippers, who crowded Soldiers Field to capacity for the fourth time in three days.

The spectacle today brought to a close the colorful ceremonies and assemblages of the congress at the stadium. On Thursday the final ceremonies will be held at Mundelein, north of Chicago.

Cardinal Czernoch, primate of Hungary, addressed the session in the Magyar tongue.

Solemn pontifical mass was celebrated by the Right Rev. E. F. Boban, auxiliary bishop of Chicago, assisted by the Very Rev. Francis Gordon, a full blooded Chippewa Indian from a Wisconsin reservation.

Cardinal Dougherty of Philadelphia, presiding prelate, spoke of the place of Eucharistic worship in the development of intellect.

"If the real presence of Our Lord in the Holy Eucharistic is to be denied because the intellect cannot grasp it, all mysteries will have to be rejected," he said.

And if we reject all mysteries we come to chaos, for all about us are

EX-CONVICT HUNTED IN NORTH END ATTACK FROM MYSTERY CAR

A mysterious assassin, whirling through Salem street, North End, in a closed automobile today, fired four times from a window of the car and shot down two women.

The name of one woman is on the danger list at the Relief Hospital. The other was less seriously injured and was discharged after treatment.

Police believe the shots were fired in an attempt by the speeding motorist to shoot down a man with whom he had quarreled.

The women shot are:

$2,500,000 SPENT IN DRY CAMPAIGN YEARLY

Washington, June 23 (I.N.S.)—A searchlight was turned today on the finances of the National Anti-Saloon League, which have long been a subject of speculation in political quarters.

Wayne B. Wheeler, generalissimo of the league, told the Senate "Slush Fund" investigating committee that for the years immediately preceding the adoption of the eighteenth amendment the league spent approximately $2,500,000 a year in its efforts to get the amendment ratified by State legislatures.

Since 1920 the expenditures have ranged from $548,000 a year to $370,000, the figure for 1924.

scription of the missing Los Angeles evangelist.

Mrs. McPherson told the story of her abduction to McCafferty as follows:

"I went to Ocean Park with my secretary, Miss Schaefer. There I changed into my bathing suit. I went in swimming. I sent Miss Schaefer to get the names of some friends and some music.

"Before she returned I came back out on the beach. There were lifesavers drilling there. I went back into the water a short distance and while I was watching the guards I heard someone calling: 'Mrs. McPherson!'

"I turned to face a woman who explained that her bab was dying and she wanted me to pray for it. She said her husband had the baby in a car nearby. She had a coat over her arm. I accompanied her to the car, in which there was another woman with a bundle in her arms, which I thought was the baby.

"The next thing I knew I was pushed into the car. The woman threw the coat over me and a sweet, sticky odor assailed my nostrils.

HALF MILLION RANSOM

"That was the last I knew until I came to on a bed, in a house of ill repute. It was in a room with a low ceiling. The windows were covered with paper. There was a woman there, who was called Rose, who was with me. She told me it was the morning following.

"The other woman came in and I asked them what they wanted with me. They said they were holding me for a half a million dollars ransom. I told them they were foolish, that I did not have that much money, nor did the church have it, but they replied that they knew better; and I was kept there day after day.

"Later they told me they had made plans to get the ransom. Then, from the remarks I overheard, I learned they had almost been captured in San Francisco when trying to make arrangements to get the money.

"A few days ago I was moved. We were in two automobiles and traveled long distances. We came to another house and remained there two days.

"The men were not there. Previously they had burned me with a cigar on the finger to make me answer the questions they said my mother had asked to prove I was alive. They threatened to cut off this finger the one with the long, white scar so that my mother would know when she received it that they did have me captive.

street, Dorchester, welfare worker for the North End Catholic Guild; bullet wounds in abdomen and right knee; on danger list.

Mrs. Theresa Tanzi, Charter street, North End; shot in right breast, left thigh, left leg—all superficial.

Salem street, a crowded thoroughfare, was thronged as usual when the light sedan came racing through its narrow confines.

As the machine passed near Prince street a hand holding a revolver was thrust through an open window of the car.

WOMAN HYSTERICAL

Four reports startled the thronged street. Women screamed. Men dived for doorways. Two women lay groveling on the sidewalk. Firemen raced to the scene from the house of Eugine 8 farther along in Salem street.

The assassin's car had sped away with no one taking the number.

The Costello woman was lifted into the automobile of District Fire Chief Watson by the chief's driver, Herbert White, and Hoseman John Carr and was taken to the hospital.

Mrs. Tanzi followed in the hospital a few moments later in the ambulance of the Hanover street police station, brought to the scene by Sergeant Maurice Sullivan and Patrolman George J. Hanley.

Hastening to the hospital on receiving a report of the attempted murder, Inspector James J. Dennessey of the homicide bureau questioned both women. Mrs. Tanzi then accompanied the inspector to police headquarters. She was in a hysterical condition.

Three suspects were rounded up by the police within two hours after the shooting, but two were released after brief questioning. The third was held for further examination, but was not booked.

A loaded revolver, found in a Salem street doorway near the shooting, was being checked to determine the owner.

EX-CONVICT SUSPECTED.

A short time later a request was broadcast by the police to all police in eastern Massachusetts to watch for a Salem street man who once served a State Prison term for an attempt to burglarize a North End church.

It is the police belief that he was the man in the car, and that he shot at another man who was leaning against a building in Salem street.

Police learned that the two men had quarreled a week ago and again today and that the man sought had threatened to kill the other.

Cardinal O'Connell Cheered by Pilgrims

The Rt. Rev. Edward F. Hoban, D. D., auxiliary Bishop of the Archdiocese of Chicago, president of the twenty-eighth international Eucharistic Congress, was the celebrant. The sermon was preached by the Most Rev. Austin Dowling, D. D., Archbishop of St. Paul, Minn.

While the scene was an inspiring one, it is evident that the pilgrims are anticipating the great day tomorrow at Mundelein.

The afternoon program provides for a sectional meeting of English-speaking groups at the Coliseum, with addresses by Rt. Rev. Pedro Garcia Martinez, D. D., Bishop of Calahorra, Spain; the Rev. James J. Mertz, S. J., of Loyola University, Chicago; the Rev. Vincent De Lorenzo, S. S., of Rome; the Rt. Rev. Maurice Landrieux, D. D., Bishop of Dijon, France; Hon. G. Elliot Antruthers, assistant editor of the Tablet, London, and the Rt. Rev. Alexander J. McJavick, D. D., Bishop of Lacrosse, Wis.

At 8:30 tonight there will be another sectional meeting of the English-speaking group at the Coliseum.

The addresses will be delivered by Anthony Mayre, K. S. G.; the Very Rev. Joseph M. Corrigan, D. D., rector of the Catholic University of Philadelphia; the Very Rev. Charles Smith, O. F., Ph. D., prior of Immaculate Conception College, Catholic University of America, Washington, and the Rt. Rev. Francis Clement Kelley, D. D., LL. D., member of the permanent committee of the International Eucharistic Congress and Bishop of Oklahoma.

The official Boston pilgrims, under the leadership of Cardinal O'Connell, will bid goodby to Chicago tonight, when the South American steams out into Lake Michigan on her way to Waukegan, Ill., in order to place the Cardinal and his pilgrims in close proximity to the grounds of the seminary of St. Mary on the Lake at Mundelein tomorrow.

Cardinal O'Connell was given a hearty reception as he marched in procession with the other visiting Cardinals from their rendesvous in the Field Museum to the great sanctuary in Soldiers' Field. Many women, and men, too, who are here from various parts of New England, made it a point to get to the Stadium at an early hour, in order to be in position at the front.

They took up places at a point where the Cardinal would come on to the field, waved their hands and otherwise showed their respect for their leader. One woman, after waving her welcome to the Cardinal, swooned, but was quickly revived.

Of course, some of the pilgrims did not get into the big Stadium. Maybe they will have their chance today, which has been set aside as Higher Education Day.

Many of the women attended a meeting at the Coliseum, but the great feature of the exercises, with the exception of the meeting and Pontifical Mass at which Cardinal O'Connell was the presiding prelate, was the night meeting for men only held in the Stadium at Soldiers Field.

This was under the auspices of the Holy Name Society of the archdiocese of Chicago. Russes took the reins of the Boston pilgrimage from the landing place of the steamer South American to the field. Most wonderful was the spectacle of the great field brilliantly illuminated by groups of searchlights, set in towers high above the field, a new experience for the thousands of men.

Anthony Matre, K. S. G., president of the Chicago Holy Name Society, was the chairman of the meeting. Mr. Matre is very well known in Boston through his connection several years ago with the Catholic Church Federation.

The great meeting, devoted exclusively to the men who have come to Chicago to attend the Eucharistic Congress, was brought to a close with solemn benediction of the most blessed sacrament, Cardinal Mundelein pontificating. All the men took the Holy Name pledge.

Many of the men and women pilgrims from Greater Boston and the New England States filled in the time between meetings and meals by making tours of the city and the shops, many of them taking sightseeing buses to various places in and out of the suburbs.

Last night was red letter night for the Woburnites in the official Boston party. Early in the evening they assembled on the lower deck of the South American, ready for the dinner given in their honor by Mayor William E. Dever of Chicago, and Mrs. Dever. The Woburn delegation, under the leadership of the Rev. John P. Graham, pastor of St. Charles' Church, are proud of the attention shown them by their former fellow townsman.

The affair was held at Hotel Palmer House, and it is needless to say that Woburn and its sons and daughters were glorified by the Chicago Mayor, and that they in turn heaped praise and tributes upon their distinguished citizen and his charming wife.

CAPE COD BILL GIVEN O. K.

Washington, June 23 (A.P.).—The House Rivers and Harbors Bill, carrying the modified Illinois waterway and Missouri River projects and provision for government purchase of the Cape Cod Canal, was approved today by the Senate Commerce Committee.

The $11,500,000 authorization for the purchase of the Cape Cod Canal remains as modified to provide specifically that the United States shall not be liable for the payment of interest on the bonds of Cape Cod Canal until after title to the waterway has passed to the government.

Immediately after the fire the Knights of Columbus offered the Masons the use of their building and the offer was accepted. The Masonic Association met in the rooms of the Lowell Council, Knights of Columbus, to discuss plans.

Hub St. Vincent de Paul Members Given Reception

Boston people have arrived in the city since the opening of the congress, several making the trip over the road in automobiles and by easy stages.

The Rev. Dr. Charles P. Sullivan pastor of St. Andrew's Church at North Billerica, will remain until Friday morning.

The Rev. Dr. John J. McGarry, PP, of St. Patrick's, Lowell, and Humphrey O'Sullivan, KSG, also of Lowell, called on Fr. Sullivan.

The Rev. Daniel Fraher of the Church of the Most Precious Blood Hyde Park, also is here for the congress.

It is a rather difficult matter to catch any group of the Boston pilgrims together at any of the hotels where their party is quartered.

Practically all of them are "seeing Chicago," when they are not engaged in attending the various religious exercises laid down in the program.

STUDENTS' DAY AT EUCHARISTIC

all the mysteries of the natural world which we cannot penetrate."

Today's spectacle in adoration of the Holy Eucharist, symbolic of the last supper, followed one of the high spots of the twenty-eighth Eucharistic Congress here—the assembling of more than 150,000 men in the stadium last night.

The meeting was under the auspices of the Holy Name Society.

The night was given over exclusively to the men. All day at least 200,000 people bowed in prayer before the shrine, with its four gilded angels facing north, east, south and west.

An impressive picture was produced when service began at dusk with 150,000 men standing in the stadium.

The procession of purple-robed bishops presented a solemn scene and as they and the Cardinals took their seats, searchlights from the altar were played upon the orchestra and the vast assemblage sang the "Star Spangled Banner."

Bishop Hoban of Chicago, who presided, called on the worshippers to rise and repeat after him the divine praises."

"Blessed be God," the multitude began.

"Blessed be His Holy Name."

Candle light framed the field in its radiance as the generations of fidelity to the Faith rolled out into the darkness.

Bishop Hoban said:

"In the first centuries of the Christian era ofttimes 100,000 people gathered in the Roman amphitheatre to witness the cruel torments and death of the followers of Christ. Now, in a new Land of Liberty with twice that number we come together for quite another purpose, as most noble followers of the same Christ, to sing His praises, to honor His Holy Name, to acknowledge His holy influence on our daily lives."

David I. Walsh, former United States Senator from Massachusetts, was another speaker. He was originally scheduled to be the first layman to address the Eucharistic Congress, but the forced abandonment of the initial day's outdoor program resulted in his becoming one of the principal speakers on men's night instead.

Cardinal Von Faulhaber, Archbishop of Munich, addressed the assemblage in German, and Cardinal Casanova, Primate of Spain in Spanish.

The Most Rev. Joseph Palica, Archbishop of Philippi celebrated a Pontifical Mass before 170,000 women. At night he spoke to more than 150,000 men.

Cambridge and Boston Men Forbidden to Speak at the Gathering for Deportees

Fall River, June 23.—A police cordon will be thrown around Fall River tonight to prevent a mass meeting called by the International Defence Society to protest against the deportation ordered by the State Department of 3 prominent Portuguese residents, charged with preaching anarchy and overthrow of the government.

The men were arrested a month and a half ago and were defended by Attorney Harry Hoffman of Boston, who represented Anthony Bimba at the Brockton blasphemy trial.

The three are Diamantine Texeira, Antone DaCosta and Antone A. Perriera. Their case was investigated by the local Federal commissioner and they were ordered deported.

The meeting tonight was to have been held at Music Hall, but the owners of the building at the last moment canceled the permit. Chief of Police Martin Feeney forbade owners of other halls in the city to lease their places to the protestants.

In addition to the police detail guarding the city, police of Woonsocket, Providence and Pawtucket and Federal authorities will guard all halls.

Circulars distributed for the last two weeks throughout Rhode Island announced speakers at the meeting would be Professor W. Lawrence Dana of Cambridge, and Dr. H. L. Gibbs of Boston.

CHIVALRY COST MAN 7 MONTHS IN CELL

Accepts Blame for Holdup in Order to Protect Name of Married Friend

Some men claim chivalry while others claim it, this latter class embracing James Castelucci of Medford, who was freed from State Prison today by Judge George A. Flynn, who sentenced him in Middlesex Superior Court as a holdup man last November.

It cost Castelucci seven months of freedom to be chivalrous to a married woman, and threatened him with ten years more as a prisoner, but the Medford man wiksed free today, happy in the thought that even though he has his freedom, a way was found to protect the married woman's name still.

Castelucci was convicted last Fall of assault with intent to rob Harry F. White of Medford. Judge Flynn sentenced him to ten to twelve years in State Prison.

WOMAN'S NAME SECRET.

Recently Castelucci was prevailed upon to make a deposition to Judge Flynn and Assistant District Attorney Warren L. Bishop, who prosecuted the case.

In the deposition the prisoner said he had accepted sentence because he did not wish to involve a married woman with whom he had been holding a tryst near the holdup scene on the night in question.

The woman's name was to be a secret with the judge and prosecutor and her husband must not know the story. Castelucci would prefer serving his sentence to bringing her trouble.

OPEN PRISON DOORS.

Judge Flynn and the assistant district attorney personally and secretly interviewed the married the married woman and she admitted her friendship with Castelucci. They also interviewed a doctor and checked up other statements of the Medford man.

When they were convinced that Castelucci was jailed because he was too chivalrous to summon the married woman and prove his alibi, Judge Flynn had him brought over fro mState Prison, revoked the sentence and freed him.

Atty. Bishop then not pressed the indictment.

Faithful, broken-hearted mother of doomed youth, who is leading fight against chair. Daily she visits boy in jail, cheering him up.

MORE AID PLEA FOR SLAYERS

A second meeting was held today in the home of Edward J. Heinlein, one of the three men condemned to die for murder, when 200 women voted to join his petition for leniency with that of George J. McLaughlin.

They also voted to support independently the petition of John J. Devereux, the third member of the trio, who is seeking commutation of sentence. The parents of Devereaux and the mother of McLaughlin attended the meeting.

There was also a conference at the office of Heinlein's counsel, C. D. Driscoll, to shape up further action.

DRAWS HOLY PICTURES.

Mrs. Mary McGuinness, chief ranger of St. Genevieve Council, M. C. O. F., was made joint chairman of the Heinlein and McLaughlin petitions.

Heinlein finds his chief diversion in making pen and ink sketches of religious subjects and working out radio problems at which he is expert.

When Mrs. Heinlein made her daily trip to East Cambridge jail on Tuesday with the customary bag stuffed with good things that she had cooked for her son, Eddie presented her with the latest sample of his art—a large sketch of Christ.

Mrs. Heinlein's eyes were moist as she scanned the gift. The nature of the subject and the solemnity with which the doomed youth handed it to his mother moved her greatly.

Edward was eager to learn every detail of the fight being made for commutation of the death penalty to life imprisonment.

LITTLE CHINESE GIRL TO WED

A sixteen-year-old Chinese girl petitioned Judge Beans in Middlesex Probate Court today for the right to marry a forty-two-year-old suitor.

Oi Gem, Lowell, said she had the consent of her parents to marry Ah Jim, wealthy merchant of Providence.

At previous litigation, a guardian was sought for Oi Gem through the instigation of Wong You, well-known Lowell restaurateur and prominent in Y. M. C. A. activities. Judge Beans ruled her parents competent. Wong You has since married.

Today the girl said she was betrothed to Ah Jim two years ago after the fashion of her people.

GOOD SLEEP BEFORE MOTHER CAME

A bright 3-year-old, found walking along Charlestown streets without a stitch of clothes, was taken in and cared for by officers of City square station. The police discovered he was Stanley Freestone when his mother called for him.

MOTHER CLAIMS 'NUDE' WAIF

Stanley Freestone, almost three years old, who lost his nightie somewhere between his home at No. 33 Lynde street and City Square, Charlestown, where he was met by a kindly policeman, was claimed at the police station by his mother, Mrs. Bridget Freestone.

Mrs. Freestone couldn't figure it out at all. She had left Stanley tucked safe in bed, clad in a guaranteed nightie.

The next thing she knew Officer O'Connell came as an ambassador from Captain Goff of Charlestown, asking if she was minus a youngster. She was.

It seems that Stanley must have departed from his home with the idea of an invigorating morning walk in his mind.

At any rate, he was stepping along at a rather brisk gait when he breezed into Lawrence and Union streets, looking as fit as a fiddle and fresh as a daisy.

Came Patrolman Hans Bruneck of the City Square section, rather bored at the outbreak of the cloudy dawn.

"Ah there!" said officer Hans as he caught sight of the blonde-haired pedestrian and then caught his breath.

There was no answer. The pedestrian was not inclined to pass the time of day.

"Ah there," Officer Hans ventured again, rather pleasantly. "Haven't you forgotten something?" The blonde-haired pedestrian looked a little bit annoyed.

"Oh, these policemen!" he ruminated, or something like that. But Patrolman Bruneck didn't wait for any ruminations.

ONLY ONE WIFE FOR MONTE

Still sticking steadfastly to denials that he is husband to any but one wife, "Count Paul Anatole Monte" declared in a Charles Street Jail interview that he welcomes reconciliation with his wife and expects to be released on bail soon.

Dressed in a jail suit of gray that replaced his own natty attire, Monte, or Nicholas Wiseman, modestly safety pinned the collar about his neck to hide the absence of a white collar from the girl reporter.

Told of an affidavit received by Federal authorities from his mother in Montreal admitting Monte to have been married more than once, he said:

"That is a falsehood. I had not heard of the paper. But I have never gone through a marriage ceremony with any other woman than my wife in Winthrop.

"I am going through the same tortures now that I went through at the Grover trial."

7-YEAR-OLD BOY HIT BY HEAVY TRUCK

Seven-year-old William Milne of No. 61 Hall avenue, West Somerville, is at the Somerville Hospital, suffering from injuries to the head, received while crossing the street in front of No. 56 Holland street, West Somerville. The boy was taken by Patrolmen McNamara and Martin Dwyer of No. 44 Wallace street to the Somerville Hospital.

DEFENSE NEARS CLOSE IN 'RAP'

Roxbury police when in doubt as to the name of the owner of a house when making liquor raids use an assumed name, Sergeant William D. Walsh of Station 9 testified today at the trial of Attorney Nathan Ullian, charged with bribing two officers in connection with the "take the rap" probe.

With the swearing of several character witnesses the defense drew toward a close and the case is expected to go to the jury in Suffolk Superior Court before nightfall.

At the conclusion of the testimony Attorney William Flaherty, counsel for Ullian, moved for dismissal of the indictment on the ground of insufficient evidence and argued that the question at issue was for the court and not for the jury to decide.

Sergeant Walsh, a defense witness, was taken over by Assistant District Attorney Alpert for cross-examination at the beginning of the session.

The first question brought a denial of Ullian's testimony that Walsh had given champagne to Alpert. Walsh answered an emphatic "no."

"Did you ever give me any wine?" asked Alpert.

The witness again replied in the negative.

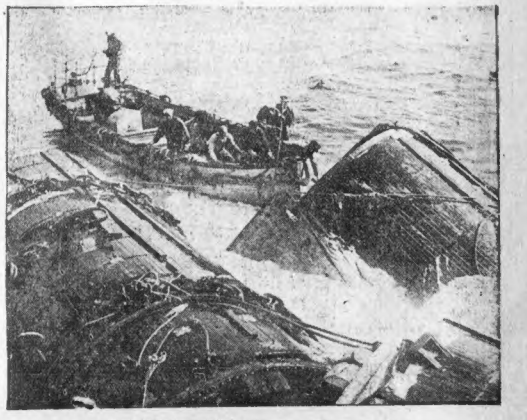
GEYSER RISES LIKE SHAFT IN SEA AS S51 TAKES CARGO OF DEAD TO SANDS AGAIN

SALVAGE SAILORS THRILLED AS S51 PEEPS OUT
Sea-hardened men were excited and surprised when the nose of the S51 shot suddenly from the water off Block Island, where they had toiled so long to lift it from the bottom.

"LIKE A MONUMENT TO THE DEAD OF THE SEA"
Photo shows the stream of water shooting up as the S51 goes back to the bottom. The sea appears to be draped in snow, so furiously did the water churn as the crash came.



HOOKING LINES TO S51 ONCE MORE
Here's the nose of the S51 between the pontoons that lifted her. The bow was lowered again as the rigging broke. All these photos are by International Newsreel, taken off Block Island.

POODLE SAVES BABY BOY FROM DROWNING IN CREEK

Here is faithful Rover, who jumped into Muddy Creek when a 3-year-old boy tumbled in and tried to drag him ashore. Walton Wallmeyer, 7, (above).

When the dog found he could not get the drowning boy to land he made enough noise to attract James Garvan of Roxbury, who plunged in, clothes and all, and saved the child. The boys and their poodle friend were playing on the bank of the creek when the little fellow fell in.

Melvin Shaman, 3 years old, sure does think Rover is a great dog and so does his mother, Mrs. Etta Shaman of No. 1265 Tremont street, Roxbury, even

JUDGE OVERLOOKS EVA, THINKING SHE'S A BOY

The modern boyish bob so closely resembles a boy's haircut that sixteen-year-old Eva Joyce of Saratoga street, East Boston, was mistaken for a young man in East Boston court today. Eva was called before the court on complaint of her mother charged with being a stubborn child in having absented herself from home for three weeks. When her name was called she stood before the bench, and, as the court could see only the girl's head, he mistook it for that of a young man. The judge was somewhat confused, but Eva was not at all abashed, and perily pleaded not guilty. Her case was continued to Wednesday, when an additional charge will be placed against the girl.

Record Wheat Crop

Ottawa, Ont., June 23 (A.P.).—For five years Canadian wheat crops have averaged over two bushels an acre more than those of the United State, says a bulletin issued by the International Institute of Agriculture. The Dominion's world record has averaged 15.5 bushels per acre since 1920, while that of the United States has been 13.3.

FIREMAN RESCUES WOMAN IN WORCESTER SHOE FIRE

Worcester, June 23.—An aged woman was carried down a ladder to safety and a number of other guests of the Hotel Quincy were forced to the streets today when smoke from a burning shoe store filled the upper stories at Front and Trumbull streets. Fire caused damage of $10,000.

The blaze started from an undetermined cause in the Leonard Shoe Store occupying the first floor of a five-story building. Hoseman Cornelius Shea of the Worcester Hose 2 found Mrs. Jane Horn, sixty-five, trapped in her room, and carried her to safety.

ENGLAND TO HANG MOTHER OF 3 DESPITE PROTEST

London, June 23 (A.P.).—England again is faced with the unwelcome task of hanging a woman for murder, and the country is distressed.

The condemned woman is Mrs. Louise Calvert, 35, and the mother of three children, the youngest being a baby boy. She is condemned to be hanged tomorrow in Manchester. Mrs. Calvert was convicted of killing Mrs. Lily Waterhouse, a widow with whom she lived after being separated from her husband. Robbery was suggested as the motive.

Home Secretary Sir William Joynson-Hicks has refused to issue a reprieve. Rumors that Mrs. Calvert was about to become a mother were stated by the home secretary to be without basis in fact.

Mrs. Calvert is the first woman faced with execution in England since Mrs. Edith Thompson was hanged in Holloway Jail on Jan. 9, 1923, with P. Bywaters for the murder of her second husband.

DEER STEPS INTO STORE TO GET RID OF PURSUERS

Worcester, June 23 (A.P.).—A game warden, three policemen, a veterinarian and a crowd of 150 men and boys engaged today in a wild deer hunt in Trumbull Square, in the heart of the city, and for nearly an hour the 150 pounds of wild doe had the big crowd falling over itself and over her in an effort to take her alive. She finally dashed into a furniture store, where she was captured at 4:45pm to the municipal zoo in a motor truck.

BRIGANDS ATTACK SOVIET EXPEDITION INTO ASIA

Leningrad, June 24 (A.P.).—A scientific expedition sent into the desert tract of Kara-Kum, Central Asia, by the Leningrad Institute of Applied Botany was attacked by a band of desperadoes near a settlement to which they had gone after having been without water for three days. The expedition returned to its starting point after severe difficulties. The desperadoes, made up of roving Basmachi, destroyed all the scientific instruments and data, leaving only two camels for the scientists.

NEW OVERSEER FOR BOWDOIN COLLEGE

Brunswick, Me., June 23 (A.P.).—Luther Dana, '93, of Westbrook, has been elected to the board of overseers of Bowdoin College. New members of the alumni council named were Eugene Hodge, '97, Portland; Walter M. Sanborn, '95, Augusta; John W. Lyden, '07, Philadelphia, and Cedrid R. Cowell, '12, New York.

Prof. Melvin T. Copeland, of Harvard, '06, Fred Lord, '11, Augusta, and William D. Ireland, '16, Portland, were elected directors of the Alumni fund.

DEMOCRATS IN TAX CUT RAISE

Washington, June 23 (I.N.S.).—The Democrats lost no time today in starting a drive for further reduction of Federal taxes.

After a twenty-four-hour study of the condition of the treasury, as revealed by President Coolidge in his speech Monday night, Representative Jacobstein (D.) of New York announced he would introduce a resolution directing the ways and means committee to meet prior to the convening of Congress in December in order to have a new tax reduction bill ready for submission by the time Congress meets.

The Treasury closes its books for the fiscal year one week from today with a surplus of nearly $400,000,000, an estimated surplus of nearly $200,000,000 next year, and an anticipated surplus for the following year that is largely guesswork, but which the experts place anywhere from $20,000,000 to $100,000,000, depending upon business conditions.

By thus inaugurating the movement for further tax reduction while the President's anti-tax cut speech is still warm, the Democrats beat the Republicans to the political punch.

PILSUDSKI IN DEATH PLOT

Warsaw, June 23 (I.N.S.).—What may have been an attempt to assassinate Marshal Pilsudski was frustrated today when a woman, who had been serving a prison sentence, was arrested in the home of the marshal.

The woman had reached the Marshal's study when she was discovered by a guard.

Police are investigating her connections and believe she planned an attack upon the Marshal.

The woman gave her name as Josefin Gocsa, from Lodz. She declared she had orders to see Pilsudski.

The police have refused to give out any information concerning the woman, but she will be mentally examined.

BLUE AND GOLD HER ENSEMBLE

Miss Mildred G. Fall of Boston believes blue and gold will catch the eyes of the four fashion and art authorities to choose The Boston Girl of 1926.

This smartly garbed typically modish girl is artistically attired in a modishly fashioned robe de style of French blue. A film of gold lace in the front of the dress, slippers of gold kid and golden antique earrings and beads are the contrasting colors. The flaring black bow is moire ribbon.

Her photograph will be placed before the judges, together with the photographs of scores of fashionably dressed girls already in the possession of The Boston Girl of 1926 Editor.

Please understand clearly that the publication of a girl's photograph has no effect on the decision of the judges.

If you have not sent in your photograph showing you attired in your most becoming gown, street dress, or sports ensemble, you are carelessly passing by a remarkably attractive opportunity.

Read the rules. Then send a photograph or come in and have one made free.

Here are the rules of the contest:

Deciding factors—carriage, poise, appearance; art in choosing clothes appropriate to type.

Members of theatrical profession not eligible.

Any style or nature of raiment eligible except bathing costume.

Preliminary selection from photos; final selection from candidates in person wearing clothes in which photographed without change or addition.

Any woman's photograph made anywhere eligible if submitted other than by subject, photo must be accompanied by complete identification.

Judges—L. W. Sargent, director Sargent School for Physical Education; Royal Bailey Farnum, director Massachusetts School of Art; Cyrus Dallin, distinguished sculptor; an associate editor Harper's Bazaar.

TAKES FIREMEN FOR THUGS AND FIGHTS

Ogdensburg, N. Y., June 23 (A.P.)—The grandstand on the Oswegatchie Agricultural Association's grounds here was burned today.

Jack Mills, caretaker, who was asleep and near suffocation when firemen entered the building, mistook the rescuers for robbers and fought with them. Six valuable race horses were led from the burning building. The loss is estimated at $20,000.

3 VAUDEVILLE ACTORS KILLED

Modesto, Cal., June 23 (A.P.)—Three vaudeville performers were killed and three others seriously injured when an automobile in which they were driving from Stockton to Fresno to fill an engagement upset one mile south of Modesto today.

The dead: Mrs. F. B. Knight, New York, wife of the driver of the machine; Bert Brown, seventeen; Harry Dodsen, Springfield, Mo. F. B. Kincaid, driver of the car, who is suffering from a fractured skull, believed a blowout caused the car to turn over.

YOUNG SWIG FOUND GUILTY IN AUTO CASE

Convicted of reckless driving, Hirsch M. Swig, son of Simon Swig, former Boston banker now in Florida, will be sentenced on Thursday by Judge Flynn in Superior Court.

It took a jury just ten minutes to find Swig guilty. He was convicted in Woburn Court of reckless driving in Reading on April 24 and sentenced to two months. He carried the case to the Superior Court on an appeal. A civil suit growing out of the accident was filed simultaneously with his conviction and an attachment for $20,000 placed on his property.

31 NARCOTIC CONVICTS FREED IN JAIL BREAK

Los Angeles, June 23 (A.P.)—Thirty-one of the 32 prisoners who escaped from the Lincoln Heights jail here were still at large today. Two were picked up in the downtown section. All were sentenced on narcotic charges and were serving from 30 to 90 days. Most of them were Mexicans. Using smuggled hacksaw blades, the prisoners sawed their way to freedom. Warned of the jail delivery by the yells of other prisoners, jailers rushed from the building only to see the last of the escapes scrambling over the wall.

CROWN PRINCE VISITS BIG GARY STEEL MILLS

Chicago, June 23 (A.P.)—En route to Chicago for a four-day stay, Crown Prince Gustavus Adolphus of Sweden today characteristically chose to pause at Gary, Ind., to trek through the grimy steel mills.

Carl O. De Bardel, royal consul for Sweden, and Mayor Dever headed a committee of several hundred to welcome the Prince and Princess to Chicago. Although Vice-President Dawes has been detained in Washington, the visitors will stop at the Dawes home in Evanston.

THUGS ESCAPE IN GUN DUEL

Tracing ownership of a straw hat, the police today hoped to run down a pair of thugs who engaged in a gun fight with a policeman in a yard in Corinth street, Roslindale, and escaped after an exciting auto chase.

The pair fled with the entire stock of the Melvin Dress Manufacturing Company, located at No. 9A Poplar street. One of the men is believed to have been wounded.

The policeman found the two men loading their automobile in the yard, which is adjacent to Poplar street. Before he was aware of what was actually taking place one man drew a gun and fired point blank at him.

A squad of policemen and a detachment of firemen from Engine 45 joined in the pursuit, but the robbers succeeded in covering their trail.

Later a search of the yard revealed a straw hat which the police are certain was dropped by one of the men. It is believed this clue will lead to the arrest of at least one of the men. Anderson was also certain that he hit one of them for he had difficulty in making his way to the auto, staggering as though wounded.

BETTY ALDEN'S COMMENT ON SOCIETY

Boston Society Young Folk Dance at Fashionable Beck Hall Tea

WAY INTO THE EARLY hours did Boston's fashionable young feminine world dance with untiring enthusiasm squired by Porcellian Club hosts at what is, each year, the very smartest of Class Day affairs, the "Beck Hall Tea."

IT WAS, OF COURSE, society's mecca. The Beck Tea carries a cachet of ultra chic, and every girl longs to be seen there. And this year's quota of youthful guests was particularly attractive.

BRIDESMAIDS' FROCKS worn at the Sally Endicott Dexter-Howes Burton bridal in Trinity Church last Monday appeared at the Beck tea—worn by Miss Theodora Ayer, Miss Eleanor Gibson, Miss Edith Parker, Miss Helen Lovering and Miss Betty Soule.

THEIR FLOPPY LEGHORN HATS, tied with blue ribbons and pink mulle frocks made a pretty splash of color. Elizabeth Lyman in vivid green net (an effective frock with her dark coloring) and Miss Jean Sears in ecru lace supped and danced at Beck.

MRS. HARRY HILL THORNDIKE (she is to be a Newport hostess this Summer) brought her daughters, Miss Isabel and Miss Helen Thorndike. Mrs. George M. Cushing, Miss Grace Cushing, the latter in sky foxwell chiffon; the Philip Gardners and Miss Virginia Gardner were there.

ROBERT WINTHROP, of the crew, had among his guests his sister, Miss Dorothy Winthrop, in blue. Mrs. Bayard Thayer, with her charming daughters, Miss Mabel Bayard Thayer and Miss Ruth Thayer, were at Richard Trimble's table.

THE FORMER MARY FAY, now Mrs. George B. Dabney, was hostess for the group which sat at Frederick L. Dabney's table. Mr. and Mrs. Charles Fanning Ayer, with their daughter, Miss Anne Ayer Mr. and Mrs. John Gardiner Flint (Eleanor Musgrave), and Mr. and Mrs. Robert L. Raymond, Jr., were in the Beck enclosure.

MISS EMILY EVATT
A pretty member of the young set, who will entertain this Summer at the Evatt new shore home, Swampscott.

MRS. RAYMOND (Olivia Howard), wearing a rich Mandarin coat over her frock of ecru net, was specially attractive. Likewise, Mrs. R. Minturn Sedgwick (Helen Peabody), who, with Mr. Sedgwick (the popular "Duke"), supped and danced as Beck tea guests.

WHEN THE STEAMSHIP New Amsterdam sails from New York on Saturday she carries outward Mr. and Mrs. Vesper L. George of Boston, who take to Europe for a three-months' course of art study a group of art students.

THE GIANT BERENGARIA, making one of those picturesque midnight sailings when cabin passengers come aboard in gala array after an evening at dinner or the theatre, takes out Professor Manley O. Hudson in the local representation.

MRS. FREDERICK BILSBEE WHITWELL, radiant in beflowered crepe of brilliant blue tones on tan, with small chapeau of black came in for many greetings at Trinity Church at the Dexter-Burton ceremonial. It was her first town appearance since she returned from abroad.

SHE AND MR. WHITWELL honored in many cosmopolitan centres and close to British royal circles, have been staying in London and Paris. And while in the latter city Mr. Whitwell received signal French honors.

FOR SERVICES rendered the French he may now, with his various other decorations, wear the scarlet of that most sought insignia the Legion d'Honneur, which was but recently conferred upon him.

NEWPORT'S HIGH and mighty is gathering within the borders of that pretty little Rhode Island spot. "Miramar," the handsome Alexander Hamilton Rice estate, is alive with Summer life. In all Newport there are no more popular than the genial senator and his smartly attired spouse.

OCHRE COURT, imposing pile of masonry set within the marvelous gardens, is open with Mrs. Ogden Goelet again in residence there. Lord and Lady Cameron are at the Morrell cottage out on Ochre Point.

MR. AND MRS. WILLIAM WOODWARD, Miss Elizabeth and Miss Edith Woodward are at "The Cloisters," their Newport establishment. General Vanderbilt and Mrs. Vanderbilt have, at "The Breakers," Miss Gilla Szechenyi, eldest daughter of the former Gladys Vanderbilt and Count Laszechenyi, Hungarian Minister.

THE YOUNG SET, athletically inclined, plays tennis morning on the Casino courts. Miss Elizabeth Woodward, daughter of Mr. William Woodwards, Miss Lily Cushing, daughter of Mrs. James Denison Sawyer, the Fursyth Wickes daughters and the Cameron-McRae Winslow trio shine in this category.

3,000 VENDING MACHINES BANNED IN WORCESTER

Worcester, June 23 (A.P.)—The police today ordered more than 3,000 merchandise gaming machines removed from stores, lunchcarts, poolrooms and clubs.

Chief of Police Hill notified storekeepers that the vending machines are being operated illegally and must be disposed of at once. This action follows receipt of a ruling from City Solicitor Meiligh that the machines in question were gaming machines.

PERMITS BISHOP TO MARRY IN BAY STATE

Governor Fuller today presented to Bishop Edwin H. Hughes of Chicago a commission authorizing him as a non-resident clergyman to perform a marriage ceremony in this State. It was principally to enable Bishop Hughes, to officiate at the coming marriage of his son, that the new act was put upon the statute books.

'HAVE VISION, RADCLIFFE GIRLS TOLD

Grinnell College Head Makes Commencement Speech to the Seniors

The conviction that a new spiritual renaissance is beginning to gather momentum in this country was expressed today by President John H. T. Main of Grinnell College, Grinnell, Ia., in making the commencement speech at Radcliffe.

Dr. Main declared that the validity and vitality of this movement will depend largely upon the fact that women, college women especially, will give it direction and meaning.

He said if the college is not producing the men and women to catch the vision of a new and better life, such men and women will arrive in the end from somewhere, and he counseled his hearers in the words of the Delphic commandment: "Know Thyself."

AT SANDERS.

The exercises took place in Sanders Theatre, and were started by the singing of the college song, "Oh, Beautiful, Oh, Exacious Skies."

The exercises opened with the procession of alumnae, dignitaries and candidates for degrees, who marched from the campus to the theatre in a body, the alumnae in the van. Miss Priscilla Gaugh, college marshal, was in charge of all arrangements. Marshals who directed the procession are: Lydia Cutler, '26, class marshal; Mrs. Lauriston Knowlton of Providence, R. I., marshal for 1916 graduates celebrating their decennial; Miss Emily Everett, marshal for the dignitaries.

The exercises in the theatre opened with a prayer by the Rev. Harold E. B. Speight of Kings Chapel Boston. Mr. Main then delivered the commencement speech.

GRADUATE CHOIR TO SING.

Candidates for degrees were presented by Dean Brown and the awards made by President Ada Comstock. A choir of graduates under the direction of Mrs. Robert Winternitz sang during the exercises.

The following Greater Boston candidates received A. B. degrees: Lillian L. Arnold, Roxbury; Hilda B. Ackworth, Brookline; Elisabeth Barrett, Cambridge; Alice Beale, Cambridge; Aurelia A. Bellizia, Arlington Heights; Strena E. Benson, Roxbury; Doris M. Berry, Jamaica Plain; Mary T. Bradley, Boston; Marguerite S. Connolly Somerville; Marie B. Danbery, West Somerville; Priscilla A. Drury, Dedham; Ellen I. Durgen, Somerville; Mary R. Fratus, Boston; Margaret S. Gass, Cambridge; Barbara C. Gliddon, Dorchester; Emily A. Green, South Boston; Lena Greenfield, Malden; Ruth M. Heeks, Concord; Helen T. Hitchcock, Cambridge; Estelle M. John, Watertown; Dorothy M. Manrich Dorchester; Marie E. Kenney, Somerville; Elsa E. Marsh, Cambridge; Ruth Masters, Dorchester; Marjorie D. Moreem, Jr., Cambridge; Margaret J. Mullen, Allston; Anne J. Mullin, Dorchester; Elsa H. E. Nafey, West Roxbury; Marie Naughton, Revere; Mildred Nickerson, Somerville; Dorothea D. Parker, Cambridge; Eleanor Ransom, Boston; Adele S. Rubenstein, Roxbury; Alice M. Safford, Roxbury; Lillian I. Sicklind, Brookline; Helen F. Stevens, Somerville; Mary H. Taylor, Brookline; Marjorie R. Walden, Jamaica Plain, and Elisabeth M. Yeus, Cambridge.

CUM LAUDE.

Cum laude A. B. S. degrees were received by the following Greater Boston candidates: Doris L. Gerry, Cambridge; Mary K. Hough, Brookline; Rachel Druger, South Boston; Amy L. Lindahl, Cambridge; Barbara McQuesten, Brookline; Grace M. Michelman, Brighton; Madeline E. Pierce, Lexington, and Grace A. Richmond, Arlington.

Magna cum laude degrees were awarded to the following Greater Boston candidates: Elisabeth C. Evans, Cambridge; Aniter C. Hersum, Cambridge; Leah Lappin, Dorchester; Margaret C. Scoggin, Cambridge; Alice M. Sexton, Arlington, and Elsa E. V. R. Wolurman, Cambridge.

Eleanor Dulles of Boston was one of several to take the degree of doctor of philosophy. A large number, including many from Greater Boston, are awarded the degree of master of arts.

MRS. EBEN DRAPER IN PARIS AFTER DIVORCE

Paris, June 23 (I.N.S.).—Mrs. Eben Sumner Draper, formerly of Boston, has filed a petition for a divorce from her husband, the son of former Governor Draper, according to official records available today. Mrs. Draper asks for a divorce on grounds of her husband's refusal to resume marital relations.

Mrs. Draper, who is living in an apartment near the Bois de Boulogne, refused to comment on her action.

A Happy Woman

A MAN dreams of wealth, success and power.
A woman dreams of a home of her own and babies to love.
Happy is the young woman whose dream is fulfilled. With good health, housework is not a burden. Her home echoes to the prattle of healthy children. She must not fail those tiny hands. Her husband is still her comrade and confidant, sharing her new responsibilities. She is content.
Happy, too, is the older woman who holds her children's children in her arms and lives to see a new generation dreaming dreams of its own.

A young girl in Iowa was in such a weakened condition that she had to leave school. One day, after being in poor health for about two years, she picked up an advertising booklet and read about Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.
"I began to take your medicine," she writes. "Now I am a housekeeper with six children and I have taken it before each was born. I cannot tell you all the good I have received from it. I read all of your little books I can get and I tell everyone I know what the Vegetable Compound does for me."

DODGE CARS SHOW INCREASED SALES

Dodge Brothers cars were sold in greater volume than ever before during the past month, and increased their lead over all other makes with the exception of the Fords, according to C. S. Henshaw, Boston Dodge Brothers dealer. The recognition of the attractiveness of the new types of Dodge Brothers car, Mr. Henshaw said, was reflected in last month's registration figures for the State and Metropolitan Boston.

MID-WEEK MOTOR NEWS

By J. HERBERT DODGE, Automobile Editor

MALDEN MAN WINS SEDAN

Patrick Celata, of No. 6 Oliver street, Malden, is the winner of the contest conducted by the Oakland Motor Company of New England in connection with the 30-day run of a Pontiac sedan in the show rooms of the company. Celata will receive a new sedan for making the most correct guess as to the number of miles the car traveled during the period of the run.

More than 500 persons assembled in the Oakland salesroom to see Frank Brown, general manager, unseal the speedometer. The instrument showed that the car had traveled 8125.5 miles. The run was begun in May.

Immediately after the finish of the first run, a new speedometer was installed and the same car was started on a 31-day run, which will end on July 19. The second run will test the stability of the car to the utmost.

As in the first contest, a new sedan will be awarded to the person most correctly guessing the number of miles that the car travels in the second test.

Not a single instance of mechanical trouble was recorded during the period of the first run.

"Here is convincing evidence," said Mr. Brown, "of the confidence which the Oakland Company of New England has in the New Pontiac."

You can't go wrong when you buy thru the Classified Ads.

NEW SEATING IN OVERLAND SIX

A new and improved seating arrangement for the Overland Six Standard sedan has been announced by the Willys-Overland company.

The new individual seating arrangement consists of two separate chairs. They are hinged by floor "swings" and tip forward completely out of the way of passengers entering or leaving from the rear compartment.

They are far enough apart to eliminate disturbance to the driver by a companion passenger.

Women drivers favor the design because of the ease of riding and entering the car.

Detroit, June 23.—A profit of $2,414,441.53 and an increase in surplus of $1,011,761.64 is shown in the semi-annual statement for the six months ending April 30, just issued by the Continental Motors Corporation. After deducting taxes, depreciation and interest charges from the gross profit, $1,011,575.06 is available for dividends.

R. W. Judson, president of the company says: "The expense of experimental work on the new Continental Argyll single sleeve valve engine has been taken care of during the period and your company is now ready to proceed with production of this latest development in internal combustion engines.

"Never before in the history of the company have the possibilities been as favorable as they are now."

TAUBMAN LIKES N. E. MARKET

The second Boston Taubman store opened at No. 167 Washington street with a record business, six weeks after the nationally known company announced the opening of their first Boston store in the heart of the motor district.

Speaking of the success of the stores, Arthur Taubman, head of the company, said: "With my own observation and recently compiled statistics I have come to the conclusion that New England offers one of the healthiest progressive markets in the whole United States. The tremendous savings bank gains, building activities, and up-to-the-minute transportation facilities is the answer to our big expansion program."

DE PAOLO PICKS PEERLESS 6-80

A Peerless Six-80 is the choice of Peter De Paolo, winner of the 1925 auto race at Indianapolis, for a car for driving when he is off the speedways.

Among the things he praises in his Peerless is the ease with which it may be taken through traffic. An improved cam and lever steering device contributes a considerable share to this result.

He says: "I like power, roadability, positive braking action and plenty of reserve power. That's why I drive a Peerless."

De Paolo was among the leaders in the 1926 automobile race at Indianapolis.

The Classified Ads offer a splendid assortment of apartments.

ROAD STABILITY DUE TO EVEN WEIGHT

Even weight distribution is given as the key to the road stability of the Overland Six.

The unusual blanced units of the sedan are responsible for its roadability while traveling at high rates of speed, according to F. H. Rees, sales manager of the Boston Overland Company. Designers of the car, he pointed out, have so evenly balanced every important unit and the car itself is so low hung that there is very little "top motion" and side sway.

HEALTH SOAP

Stops body odor

The simple, common sense, effective method. Millions are discovering that antiseptic Lifebuoy is the one thing that gets rid completely of this distressing condition, even in the hottest weather.

Body odor comes from an accumulation, in pores all over the body, of acids of perspiration and fatty wastes. Under-arm applications correct only part of the trouble. Lifebuoy corrects it all. Ordinary baths help, of course, but their effect is soon lost unless Lifebuoy is used. The wonderful, health guarding antiseptic in Lifebuoy has amazing power to penetrate the pores—flood out the waste. And with skin that is antiseptically clean no odor is possible.

Just a Lifebuoy bath every morning and you'll stay fresh and immaculate all day long—free from embarrassment. Try it. Lever Bros. Co., Cambridge, Mass.

Lifebuoy is orange red—the color of its pure palm fruit oil. Its clean, antiseptic smell rinses away completely—never clings.

Story of a Boston Girl Who Liked Jazz Music and the Bright Lights

"For you, my dear," Dad said to Moms. "It's our twenty-seventh wedding anniversary."

MERRY LOCKE falls in love with an unknown man whom she passes every day on the street. To fall in love is nothing new to Marry. She has been doing it ever since she was sixteen years old. But this time she feels she has found the Real Thing.

On her twentieth birthday, Merry decides that somehow or other she will make the Man in Gray, as she calls the stranger, speak to her. She drops her handbag at his feet when she meets him on the street at noon. But instead of speaking to her, he gives it to her and gravely goes on his way.

Merry fails in two tests at business college. She dreads breaking this to MOMS.

At home she sees her sister, CASSIE, drive up to the house with the Man in Gray. Cassie says she cannot remember his name, when Merry questions her about him, but tells her that he is a lawyer she has met.

That night Merry takes her youngest sister, JINNY, to the circus. DERRICK JONES, a college boy, who lives next door, goes with them. Merry finds herself separated from Derrick and Jinny, and meets the Man in Gray. He takes her home, and kisses her at the gate, against her will. Merry knows that she has fallen in love with him, but she doesn't want this love affair to end like all the rest of hers—in "petting parties."

The next day Merry meets him at noon.

Merry doesn't expect to hear again from the man she loves. Then at 10 at night the phone rings. It must be her.

CHAPTER VIII

MERRY picked up the receiver with fingers that shook.

"Hello," she said, and her voice shook, too.

Her own wish that it might be Tony Gaines calling her was so strong that she was not at all surprised when his voice came to her over the wire.

"I want to see you now—tonight," he said.

Merry covered the mouthpiece of the telephone with her hand.

Through the open door of the living room she could see her father lying back in his old easy chair beside the lamp. Her mother was nowhere in sight.

"Dad," she called softly. "Where's Moms?"

There was no answer. Dad was evidently asleep.

"Wait a minute," Merry said huskily into the telephone.

She went into the sitting room

WALSH OUT WITH DEFI IN REVERE

Mayor Declares He Is Not Beaten by the Rum Traffic and Asks No Outside Aid

Mayor Walsh of Revere flung down the gauntlet today to all citizens who think he has been licked in battling the liquor traffic, and issued a public challenge to all such to go over his head, and place their evidence, if they have any, before the district attorney, the State or federal authorities.

While not denying that booze may have been smuggled into Revere by way of the Pine River, he scouted the recent charges of smuggling as propaganda on the part of certain people who, he claims, are seeking the removal of a member of the liquor squad, appointed at his request.

FLARED UP.

The controversy flared up at a Council meeting when, during the absence of Mayor Walsh, charges were made that liquor was being landed and smuggled into Revere through the Pines River.

Mayor Walsh said he recently appointed or caused to be appointed to the liquor squad, Patrolman John Starkey because he "felt Starkey was doing his duty and should be promoted." Starkey's appointment caused the removal of another officer, the Mayor said.

Two days after Starkey was appointed to the liquor squad he arrested an Ocean avenue man, whose arrest, Mayor Walsh said, he had been trying to bring about for a year. He is satisfied, he said, that the man was selling liquor during most of that time.

"I suggested that the man on the beat be removed and that Starkey take his place."

DOING HIS DUTY.

The Mayor said he believes many persons are now trying to throw mud at Starkey because he is doing his duty.

After talking with the councilman who made the charges and several others, Mayor Walsh said, he found that they had nothing by rumors.

If any citizen has evidence of liquor selling or smuggling and is not satisfied with placing it in the Mayor's hands or in the hands of Revere Police, he is invited to go straight to the county, State or Federal authorities, Mayor Walsh said.

Mayor Walsh said he had not admitted defeat in his war on booze and that he had not contemplated calling in State aid.

WIDOW OF ENVOY IS BRIDE

St. Cyr's First Wife, 40 Years Older Than He, Left Him $1,000,000

New York, June 23 (A.P.).—Jean Harold Edward St. Cyr, who inherited large fortunes from his two former wives, both wealthy widows, when he married them, is engaged to Madame Dominicio De Gama, widow of the late Brazilian Ambassador to the United States. Madame De Gama also is wealthy and considerably older than her fiance.

Simultaneously with the announcement of their engagement, the betrothal of Madame De Gama's 17-year-old granddaughter, Elizabeth Volck, to Prince Johannes of Lichtenstein was made public.

Madame De Gama was Miss Elizabeth Batesbelt of Texas, and has already been married three times. Her first husband was Arthur Volck and her second Arthur H. Hearn.

WEDS FIRST WIFE SECRETLY.

Mr. St. Cyr's first wife was Mrs. Caroline Redfield, 40 years his senior, whom he married secretly in 1909 while employed as her secretary. She left him a fortune of $1,000,000 when she died in 1915.

Four months later St. Cyr married Mrs. James Henry Smith, widow of "Silent" Smith of Wall street fame, and a former wife of William Rhinelander Stewart, wealthy and socially prominent New Yorker. She died in 1923, and St. Cyr shared equally with two sons of her marriage to Stewart in a fortune of $30,000,000.

REFUSED TO TALK.

Little is known of St. Cyr before his marriage to Mrs. Redfield. Beyond stating he was born of French and Dutch parentage at Trouville, France, he refused further to identify himself even in the face of charges that he was in reality John Henry Edward Thompson of Waco, Tex., former hotel and department store clerk and chorus man.

Announcement of the double engagement was made by Miss Volck and her stepfather, Guy Hilhouse of Pelham Manor, N. Y. Miss Volck said that she met her fiance, 25 years old and a member of a famous Austrian family, in Paris a year ago.

SOCIAL EVIL GROWING LESS SINCE LAW

Norman Hapgood, noted writer and editor, is now in Canada for the purpose of making a thorough survey of the workings of the liquor laws being tried out in five of the nine provinces there. In order to get a comprehensive knowledge of the situation he has associated with clergymen, government officials, newspaper men, business heads, and even mixed with inebriates. The result of his investigations are told in a series of articles written for the Hearst newspapers, the fourth of which is printed here today.

By NORMAN HAPGOOD, Universal Service Correspondent.

Montreal, June 23.—In the five years, and more, since this Quebec system of liquor control began there have been plenty of savage attacks on it, especially from outside the Province, and some of those which have been felt most have come from the States.

Not unnaturally the foes of the system have selected for special emphasis a form of vice that is always associated with drink.

On this particular form of vice Montreal was until recently a very easy target. The situation here with regard to public vice was worse than in any big city in our country except one. In the last eighteen months it has been much improved, although it still has far behind Boston and conditions in the States. But the improvement that has recently taken place has been facilitated by the new liquor system.

NOTHING more was said until we got to the boarding house. When we got inside, the strains of "Hot Tamale Alley" came floating from above. A stage team was rehearsing the ditty.

"I guess a few songs like that wouldn't help that play any, eh?" I remarked as we sat at the table.

A song-and-dance man sitting next to me said, "I hear you folks are going with 'April Fool,' and you are playing the part Midgely played last season. You've got a fine young job in front of you." And he laughed heartily.

"Was Midgely a big hit?" I asked.

"A big hit? He was a riot."

We opened the season in Newark the first week in September, and I walked on the stage at the first performance and offered an entirely different idea of the part than either Williams or Midgely had ever thought of. Instead of the "silly kid" character I was sup-

HAGEN-MEHLHORN BREAK ST. ANNES' COURSE RECORD

YANKS SET FAST PACE IN TOURNEY

American Pro Champion Negotiates 18 Holes In 68 Strokes for New Mark

St. Anne's, England, June 23 (A.P.).—The St. Anne's course record was shattered for the second time today when Walter Hagen, American professional champion, returned a brilliant round of 68 in the British golf championship. Bill Mehlhorn of Chicago previously had set a new mark with a fine record of 70.

Hagen's record-breaking card:

Out	3	5	4	4	2	4	4	5	3	—34
In	3	5	4	5	4	2	3	5	5	—36—68

Mehlhorn's card follows:

Out	3	5	4	3	5	5	4	3	3	—34
In	4	4	4	5	4	5	3	4	5	—36

The St. Anne's troge gave Wylie Gunn plenty of trouble, the Georgian being compelled to play his ball out of five hazards in the first seven holes. At the sixth tee a spectator walked in front of him as he was addressing the ball, increasing his unsteadiness. He missed a short putt at the seventeenth while a lone ball at the eighteenth cost him dearly. His card:

Out	5	5	6	3	5	6	3	5	4	—41
In	4	6	4	5	4	3	4	5	6	—41—82

By ROBERT HARLOW,
I. N. S. Staff Correspondent.

St. Annes and Lytham, England, June 23.—Jones went out accompanied by H. Crapper of Harrogate. The American champion pulled his drive slightly from the first tee and landed in a bunker, but bunkers have no terrors for this lad and he chipped out within three feet of the pin and just missed his putt, taking a four for the first hole.

Tommy Armour was out in 35 and home in 39, for a total of 74, which is not so bad for a starter. Armour's card follows:

Out	4	5	4	4	4	4	5	5	3	—35
In	5	5	4	5	4	2	4	5	5	—39

CRAPPER PROVES HANDICAP.

Jones was annoyed somewhat by his playing partner, Crapper, who was playing badly. The lack of a good pace-maker did not help Bobby's game any. At the fourth Jones had an excellent par four and after being short at the edge of the green at the fifth he chipped close to the pin and sunk a three.

At the sixth he took three putts and registered his first five, being four feet short with his approach shot. At the seventh he was bothered by a heavy following wind and took a five, but he had an excellent four at the eighth. At the difficult ninth he pushed his iron shot into the bunker at the left and barely recovered to the green for a four. His card follows:

Out	4	4	4	4	3	5	5	4	4	—37

Some disappointment was registered at Bobby's start, which was not considered too convincing after the excellent golf he has been playing during the past fortnight.

Mitchell continued his excellent golf, although he over-reached the green with his approach at the second and took two putts. He holed long putts at the fifth and sixth.

After being out in 36, Mitchell appeared to be cracking and playing like a tired man. He took seven at the eleventh, when he pushed his third into a bunker at the right of the green. On the fourteenth he had a four and at the fifteenth he was bunkered and then took three putts. Mitchell's card out follows:

Out	5	5	4	3	2	4	4	5	3	—36

ARMOUR SHOWS SKILL.

Armour had a beautiful round and at times was playing super-golf. He took three putts at the short fifth, however, and slightly pulled his drive at the long eleventh, which requires three wooden shots and a chip to make the green. At the short fifteenth he left a four-yarder. Some of the scores turned in this morning were:

F. F. Weston 79, Harry Vardon 80, William Tulloch 82, James Sherlock 79, Duncan McCulloch 79, W. Holley 84, Claude Gray 82, Thomas Howard 79, C. H. Corlett 77, Hugh Roberts 86, John Sullivan 78.

Al Watrous and Fred McLeod went out as partners and both turned in a score of 74, which was considered excellent golf. Watrous was the steadier of the two, but McLeod made marvelous recoveries after his errors. McLeod's putting kept his score down. He sunk a twelve-yard putt at the sixth after being bunkered. At the ninth he again sunk a long putt. On the last four greens he took one putt. The cards:

Watrous:

Out	3	4	4	4	4	4	3	5	3	—35
In	4	4	4	5	4	3	4	5	5	—38—73

McLeod:

Out	3	3	5	4	2	4	4	4	3	—32
In	4	4	6	3	4	3	4	3	3	—39—71

JONES GETS 73.

Jones was home in 35, which gave him a total of 72 for the eighteen, which was not the best score of the morning, but which was well within shooting distance. On the homeward journey Bobby played rather better golf than he did going out. His card is as follows:

In	4	5	3	5	4	3	4	4	5	—35

Abe Mitchell's chances were on the verge of collapse, when he finished the first eighteen with a total of 78, which gives him a good seven strokes that he must lop off tomorrow to get into the leading group. Mitchell's card in follows:

In	4	7	4	4	4	3	4	4	6	—42

Archie Compston had a 76 for the round. His card follows:

Out	2	4	5	4	4	4	5	5	3	—37
In	4	6	4	4	4	4	4	4	5	—39

Joe Kirkwood was away to a bad start for he was out in 40 and home in 41, for a total of 81, which gives him some heavy work to do in the remaining 54 holes if he is to be in the running. Kirkwood's card follows:

Out	5	4	5	5	4	6	5	4	2	—40

MISS RYAN BEAT MISS CLAIR, 6-3, 6-2

Wimbledon, Eng., June 23 (A.P.).—Miss Elizabeth Ryan, American, advanced in the singles of the Wimbledon lawn tennis tournament today by defeating Miss E. R. Clark, 6—3, 6—2.

Despite keen opposition from her English opponent, Miss Ryan's triumph in the women's singles was impressive. Her march to victory was interrupted by erratic spells on both sets. She lost the fourth, fifth and seventh games of the opening set by driving out of court, but her smashing game was at all times effective.

Mrs. Katherine McKane Godfree advanced in the women's singles by defeating Miss M. Woolrich, 6—2, 6—0.

Jacques Brugnon, French Davis Cup player, defeated R. Kgnic of Czecho-Slovakia, 6—3, 6—0, 6—2.

J. D. P. Wheatley won over H. G. Mackintosh, 6—3, 6—1, 5—7, 6—1.

Henri Cochet of France, conqueror of Vincent Richards, defeated R. Bernard, 6—1, 6—3, 6—3.

J. Kozeluk, Czecho-Slovakian Davis Cup star, advanced by eliminating J. Pennyeuick of England, 6—1, 6—1, 6—3.

Miss Evelyn Colyer defeated Miss M. V. Chamberlain 7—5, 6—2. P. M. Davison defeated L. G. Aslangul, 6—3, 6—1, 4—6, 6—4.

H. W. Austin, 19-year-old Cambridge University player, eliminated the veteran Dutch Davis Cup star, C. Van Lennep, 6—0, 4—3, 6—4, 6—1.

H. K. Lester defeated F. G. Lowe, 6—3, 6—4, 6—3.

C. Bryan defeated A. A. Fyzee, 6—3, 6—4, 4—6, 6—4.

Miss K. Bouman won from Lady Crosfield, 6—4, 6—3.

Howard Kinsey, American, defeated Eduardo Plaquer of Spain in a five match at 6-2, 6-2, 4-6, 3-6, 6-1.

Austin's victory was accepted by tennis critics as indicating that he would be one of England's supreme hopes in the tournament. With the exception of the first set, the match was bitterly contested, being a spirited fight of youth and nerve successfully matched against age and experience.

The third set was interrupted by the entrance of the Queen, who nodded to the players to continue, and who applauded the clever shots of both contestants. Her Majesty wore a gray silk suit and silver gray turban, while she viewed the play through sun glasses.

C. Bryan defeated A. A. Fyzee, 6—3, 6—4, 6—1, 6—4.

Miss K. Bouman won from Lady Crosfield, 6—0, 6—0.

In	5	6	4	6	4	3	5	3	5	—41

Roland MacKenzie of Washington and Jurado of the Argentine went out together. Jurado played the more sound golf and turned in a 77, while MacKenzie had a 79. MacKenzie's card follows:

Out	4	6	3	4	4	5	5	4	4	—42
In	3	5	3	4	4	2	4	6	3	—37

Dr. Barnes, the veteran 18th holder, was playing steady golf and was around in 77. He took three putts at the seventh and eighth and was over the ninth green and took a four. He had three putts again at the seventeenth and was in the scorge at the eighteenth for a six. His card:

Out	4	4	4	5	4	5	5	4	3	—37
In	4	5	4	5	4	3	4	5	6	—39

Ted Ray had a seventy-eight. His card follows:

Out	4	5	4	5	4	4	4	4	3	—38
In	4	5	4	5	5	4	4	5	4	—40

Arthur Havers was out in 36 and Fred Robson, his partner, was out in 38. C. A. Whitcombe was out in 38. Cyril Walker had a 35 at the ninth and Emmet French a 37.

Ted Ray, Jr.,

Walter Hagen, America, reached the turn in 32.

Suzanne Lenglen Stricken Ill in Wimbledon Tournament

By F. A. WRAY

Wimbledon, England, June 23 (I.N.S.).—The temperamental Mlle. Lenglen could not be permitted at the Wimbledon tournament today, but not on the courts.

Suzanne produced the case of hysterics, which upset things in general, and kept Queen Mary sitting twiddling her thumbs in the royal box, waiting to see Suzanne play in the women's doubles.

It all happened this way. The officials of the tournament scheduled Suzanne to play two matches today, one in the singles against Dewhurst and another in the women's doubles with Mlle. Vlasto against Miss Ellis Beth Ryan and Miss Mary K. Browne.

Suzanne arrived at Wimbledon and immediately announced her objections to this arrangement. She declared that she wouldn't play in any singles today because the doubles were more important. She promised to play in the singles tomorrow.

Officials of Wimbledon can't be overridden rough shod, even though Suzanne is their best drawing card. They remonstrated with her. Remonstrances developed into arguments, and the arguments, as far as Suzanne was concerned, developed into hysterical tears.

Finally in a fine fret Suzanne announced that she wouldn't play in the doubles.

When the officials continued their insistence that Mlle. Lenglen play in the singles as scheduled, Suzanne immediately threatened to withdraw from the tournament if any attempt were made to force her to play in the singles.

Suzanne's threat was immediately given support by all the other French players entered in the tournament and they announced that if Suzanne withdrew they too would scratch their entries.

While the "Queen of Tennis" was engaging in her own hysterics outside the stands, Queen Mary began showing signs of losing her own usual calm. The Queen, apparently becoming fidgetty, summoned Borotra, the French player, to the Royal box to inquire as to the troubles.

At 4:30, an hour and a half after Suzanne was scheduled to appear in the centre court, she had not made her appearance and it began to look as though there was a deadlock.

BOXING BOSSES HOLD UP BILLY PETROLLE'S PURSE

Chicago, June 23 (A.P.).—Payment of Frankie Schaffer of his guarantee at a meeting Billy Petrolle of Chicago, Ind., Monday night has been held up by the East Chicago Boxing Commission.

The commission meets tomorrow to decide as to what payment shall be made to the boxer, who was injured out while on his knees in the first round. He claimed he had been taken the count.

YANK SPEED BOATS TAKE SPIN OVER RACE COURSE

London, June 23 (A.P.).—The American motorboats, Little Shadow and Dixie Flier, which are favored to win the Duke of York International gold trophy race on the Thames next Saturday, had a trial trip over the Putney to Mortlake course.

TIME TRIALS DUE ON HUDSON TODAY

Poughkeepsie, N. Y., June 23 (I.N.S).—Although threatening weather still prevailed, the Hudson looked calm enough this morning, and there were rumors of a series of time trials to store for the varsity crews associated here for the big race on Monday.

The first sign of the course flattening out came around 7 o'clock last night and the Washington, California, Pennsylvania and Wisconsin crews went out over a six-mile haul for endurance, three miles up the river and three down.

Jim Ten Eyck of Syracuse also ordered distance rowing for the varsity and "jayvee" and three miles for the freshmen. There probably will be a real workout in the Orange camp today, weather permitting.

Washington and Pennsylvania had their "fill" of hard rowing in the late twilight of some twelve hours ago when both were said to have covered the full course under twenty minutes.

The expert clockers, who had walked for the points above Sunday, were caught napping when it came and no one got the time of either crew.

Having missed Washington, one of the favorites, the clockers were all set today to "catch" the Navy, which continues to rule an equal choice with the huskies.

Cornell and Columbia also did some long work yesterday but the tip today was that only Columbia was due for a fast trial, the Ithacans having just become organized here.

OAKLEY LURES GREAT FIELD OF GOLFERS

By BILL GRIMES.

With a qualifying round of 18 holes, the three-day invitation four ball best ball tournament of the Oakley Country Club will get underway tomorrow morning. The course will be open for practice rounds for teams which have accepted invitations to participate in the tourney.

Bill Grimes

From the field which is expected to number between 70 and 80 teams, 48 pairs will qualify for match play, in three flights of 16. By the qualifying round all players will play from scratch and no handicaps will be allowed teams making the championship flight but in the second and third flights, handicaps will be honored.

After the qualifying round, the schedule calls for two rounds of match play for the winners on Friday and the semi-final and finals in the three flights on Saturday.

There are 24 prizes to be awarded to the winners. For the first time in years, players winning the low qualifying prizes will not be obliged to play through in order to be eligible for their prizes.

Meanix Sure to Help M.I.T. Team

Supporters and members of the Technology track team were made happy today by the announcement that Bill Meanix, former Tufts College track coach, is to assist Oscar Hedlund with the track squad.

Meanix will join the squad next Fall and will supervise the field event competitors. Arthur Sampson, present coach at Medford High, who has signed to succeed Eddie Casey as football coach at the Medford College, also will coach the speed merchants.

Meanix during his athletic career performed well, wearing the Boston Athletic Association colors and those of English High School, but at Tufts he was unable to uncover a favorable aggregation, there being no talent whatsoever to work with.

JACK SHARKEY RULES SLIGHT FAVORITE OVER GORMAN

CHAMP SET FOR STERN RING DUEL

New England Title-Holder Is Anxious to Avenge Defeat by Burly Westerner

Bouts on Card at Braves Field

Jack Sharkey, New England heavyweight champion, vs. Bud Gorman, Kenosha, Wis., ten rounds.

Knute Hansen, California, vs. Honolulu Kid, eight rounds.

Mark Anthony, Roslindale, vs. Rocky Stone, Dorchester eight rounds.

Babe McCoy, Calgary, vs. Frank Senk, Springfield, eight rounds.

BY JACK CONWAY

JACK SHARKEY will be fighting with his back against the wall when he faces Bud Gorman in the feature ten-round bout at a Buffalo A. A. show at Braves Field tonight. The New England champion will be opposing the one of the few men who has defeated him since he started on the climb that has carried him within striking distance of Harry Wills' throne, when [illegible] from out of the West a year ago. [illegible]

Jack Conway

[illegible]

SHARKEY then started a new winning drive [illegible] Johnny Risko, Jimmy Delaney, Phil Hoffman, King Lyman and Pat Mercurio, each one to defeat, prior to Vesko's stoppage.

Gene Tunney signed to battle Sharkey in New York, only after [illegible] Sharkey could not [illegible] opponent of the Long Island [illegible] Tunney [illegible] Sharkey [illegible] defeat of last fall picked up against Jack's record. IF Sharkey wins over Gorman he will remain in the big money, and he will be [illegible] with Wills and Tunney. There would be a strong possibility that the New England champion will tackle Paul Berlenbach either in New York or Philadelphia before the outdoor boxing season closes.

Sharkey doesn't pick his opponents. Neither does Berlenbach. This makes the task of a promoter wishing to match this pair easier than it otherwise would be. It is merely a question of whether they can meet the financial terms of the rival warriors.

Jim Jeffries, former world's heavyweight champion and Tom Sharkey will be at the ringside tonight. Let us hope that Sharkey and Gorman will put up such a fight that the eyes of the veterans will glisten, that their hearts will beat fast, and that when the final blow has been delivered they will say that there are at least two present day heavyweights who compare favorably with some of the stout-hearted ring warriors of other years.

THERE have been a couple of changes in the preliminary card. Owing to a cold, King Solomon will be unable to take on Romero Rojas in the semi-final. In [illegible] Louis Hanson, latest heavyweight sensation, will clash with Honolulu Kid. Joe Stassel has been [illegible] on account of the [illegible] but suffered at the hands of Jim Maloney. Chicago Fans Peeved at Passing of 'Alex'

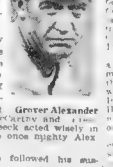
By GENE HOFFMAN
International News Service Staff Correspondent.

Chicago, June 23. The state of Illinois for the good of the game, afforded little solace to a host of baseball followers here today when they learned that the former Cleveland Athletic pitching star, Alexander of the Chicago Cubs, had been sold to the St. Louis Cardinals.

"Alex," as he was affectionately known to thousands, and become almost an institution in Chicago.

The younger fans in whom Alex has endeared himself by his friendly disposition and unfailing sportsman ship, are especially inconsolable. Those few veterans of the national pastime who can leave sentiment out of their considerations, agree that Manager Joe McCarthy and President William Veeck acted wisely in disposing of the once mighty Alex while his services for the waiver price of $4,000.



Grover Alexander

Alex's release followed his suspension a week ago in Philadelphia for breaking training. At that time the veteran hurler returned to Chicago and announced that he would work out daily in an earnest effort to get back into condition, hoping eventually to be reinstated. But Manager McCarthy, who took charge of the Cubs this Spring, had other arrangements.

Four years ago, when he was the mainstay of the Bruin pitching staff, the Cub management was reported to have refused $100,000 for Alexander. Yesterday Manager Hornsby of the Cardinals scoured the league for further attempts.

ODDS ON YALE CREW; CRIMSON STOCK GOES UP

New London, Ct., June 23 (I.N.S.) — It was expected that Ed Leader and Bert Haines would ease off on the program of work for the Yale and Harvard crews today, and in fact during the past few days there has been the case in Harvard's supposed advantage in the last two races had boosted the crimson stock considerably, but Yale is now still favored at the start.

The Harvard varsity looked like a very keen crew as it paced through a mile down stream to a point off the submarine base where rough water forced a reversion of course. It rained a few minutes after and Haines went on to the Thames with Coaching with a beat of forty [illegible] to the minute.

The Yale varsity was the only crew that did [illegible] the program of rating crews yesterday and will be heard from [illegible] Leader will give his [illegible] a last run over the [illegible] distance some time today.

CHICAGO LOOMS AS SITE FOR DEMPSEY-TUNNEY DUEL

TEX HINTS AT CHANGE OF LOCALE

Action of New York Board in Barring Bout Gives Rickard New Problem

By DAVIS J. WALSH
I.N.S. Sports Editor.

New York, June 23.—Chicago, big, rich and fight-famished, may get the Dempsey-Tunney match for the world a heavyweight title.

Tex Rickard more than intimated as much today in discussing the decision of the New York State Athletic Commission, whereby the promoter was refused permission to hold the bout within the confines of this State. He denied a story that, in the face of the adverse decision, he intended to abandon the undertaking altogether.

"That's out," he said tersely. "I've got my money tied up in this fight and I'm going to get it back.

"Don't forget that Chicago has a boxing law now" he added, apropos of nothing in particular.

Whether the remark was significant or merely the chance observation of a man who has to say something in order to look smart the writer cannot say. However, I have it on the best of authority that Rickard's record, on file with his directors, names several Chicago sites on which he claims he holds options.

If Rickard simply wanted to make interesting conversation he succeeded with his last statement. It was to the sports office that he might step from under the Dempsey-Tunney transom and push the buck to some one else. He said:

"There's a couple of birds bidding for this match. I don't know but what I will let one of them have it and take my profit now."

Rickard declined to say whether the bidders were from Chicago or only hailing that they were not from Yonkers. As for the proposed site at Jersey City, he was equally uncommunicative but it has been Boardman's story all along that that was the place where the match ultimately would land.

No matter what happens, Rickard has two "outs." He can sell the match to some promoter not under the jurisdiction of the New York commission or he can take it himself to another State ample in the courts for an injunction restraining the commission from interfering with the staging of the bout for the best

BOSTON WOMEN SCORE IN BUFFALO TOURNAMENT

Buffalo, N. Y., June 23.—Miss Harriet Ellison of the Brae Burn C., Massachusetts, by virtue of a win over Mrs. Lloyd Hewell, Buffalo Country Club, yesterday in a championship flight match which went twenty-one holes, will meet Miss Louise Fordyce, North and South champion, today.

Another Greater Boston women golfer, Mrs. J. T. Leonard, by defeating Mrs. J. L. Coulson of Toronto, also will play today against Mrs. G. Howell of Buffalo.

The brilliant golf playing of the two Payson sisters and their mother Mrs. R. C. Payson, Portland, Me., has been an added feature of the tournament.

MORGAN SAYS HE WILL PUT OVER KAYO

With two days added training as the result of the threatening weather which forced a postponement of the first open air show at Delaney Park until tomorrow night, Tod Morgan of Seattle, Wash., welterweight champion, is ready to put the finishing touches on his training preparatory to his attempt to annex a victory for the champion in his second bout against Rene Houtkooper of California.

Neither Morgan nor Herman are disturbed over the two-days' postponement, in fact both of them point out that it will result in their being in better condition for the battle.

Morgan, who already has become a popular favorite among the fistic fans here, is training his stay in the ring after Jack Jeffries, former heavyweight champion of the world, and Tom Sharkey, who are playing at a local theatre, with the result that Morgan accepted an invitation to appear there three-round bout today.

Frank Churchill, manager of Morgan, arrived in the Hub and predicted that Morgan will step fireman inside the limit. Churchill contends that the clever lightweight is the hardest punching lightweight in the game today.

Four preliminaries are on the card and Johnny Hill, Filipino K. O. king who has knocked out 40 opponents in 47 fights will show for the first time against Herman. Kid Silvers of Ansonia, Conn.

There too, there is great interest in the meeting of Jerome Robinson, former Boston light heavyweight champion and Jack Elliott of Pawtucket.

Meadows Gains Eighth Straight Victory of Year

New York, June 23 (A.P.).—Pitchers of the National League—long batters, for that matter—may demand a rule permitting the use of spectacles another season if H. Lee Meadows of the world champion Pittsburgh Pirates continues his expert moundmanship.

CARP TO BOX HUFFMAN AT SAN DIEGO SEPT. 5

San Diego, Cal., June 23 (A.P.).—The Georges Carpentier-Eddie Huffman 12-round bout, originally scheduled for the opening of the new Tijuana Arena July 4, will be staged September 5, James C. Coffroth of the Arena announced today.

Carpentier injured his hand in a recent bout in Philadelphia. Coffroth is still negotiating with Tiger Flowers for a bout with Huffman on July 4.

Neuman Will Give Tiger Real Battle

By JACK CONWAY

HERE is a red-hot tip for Tiger Flowers, world's middleweight champion.

Be prepared to fight at your best, Tiger, when you tackle Ray Neuman, New Jersey light-heavyweight, in the feature ten-round bout of a great fighting card at the Crosscup-Pishon Post's big carnival at Braves Field on next Monday night. You may be a tiger, champ old top, but this Neuman person is a lion. And if I remember correctly, the lion has always been considered the king of the jungle.

In the company of George Wiswell, manager of the Legion show, I motored up to Pine Grove Inn, just beyond Marlboro on the Worcester road, where Neuman is getting fit for his skirmish with Flowers. We found him just as he was about to begin his workout.

Lew Diamond of New York is in charge of Neuman's camp. You will remember Lew as the manager of Johnny Ruff when the latter was world's bantamweight champion.

Neuman stepped around on his toes for a couple of rounds of shadow boxing. He then boxed with Wop Monolian for two rounds. The Wop, like Flowers, is a southpaw and gave Neuman a good workout. Pal Reed, another southpaw, followed Monolian. Then Jimmy Armato White whirled through two frames with Ray.

The Jersey battler proved he can rock when he dropped White to the canvas with a short left hook to the chin. Camp followers told me that the other day Neuman tipped Monolian over.

"RAY tries to pull his punches," said Diamond, "but occasionally he isn't successful and he damages one of his sparring partners.

"Notice how Neuman is boxing. He keeps circling to the left so as to keep out of the way of the right jab and hook. These are the Tiger's best blows.

"Neuman, like Berlenbach, is German-American. He is twenty-two-years old and has been boxing for only four years. During this time he has given Gene Tunney, Berlenbach and Stribling torrid bouts. Farbling was beaten by Neuman and was saved from defeat by a home town decision. The Georgian had signed to fight Berlenbach for the title and we were obliged to accept his referee in order to get the match.

"I don't claim Neuman will defeat Flowers, but he will give the latter a tough fight. He will also be in there at the finish. Any bird who can stand up with Tunney, Berlenbach and Stribling has not any reason to run to cover merely because the Tiger of the South hits his trail.

RED CHAPMAN of Chelsea, who clashes with Al Corbett of Cleveland in another ten-round bout, also looked in fine condition. He boxed with Sylvia Maurait of Montreal, walloped the bag and did some shadow boxing. Red is ready to go right now. He is eager to beat Corbett so as to get a title shot with the victor of the Jack Garcia mill which will be staged next Monday night in Cleveland.

The rush for tickets is on at the Legion's office at No. 24 Washington street. Full in line for a real a great fighting show and at the same time help the boys who did their bit over there.

Both mildness and fullness!

Real delicacy of aroma but without loss of natural tobacco taste and character

"They satisfy and yet they're mild"—this is no mere catch-phrase; it's a taste-description of Chesterfield.

MILDNESS and fullness, the North and South poles of cigarette taste — can they be brought together in one cigarette? Seemingly no; practically yes, and with no compromise or loss of either.

It calls for the best in tobaccos; tobaccos of rare delicacy — the tender silky leaf of the costliest Turkish type; tobaccos of rich mellowness and "body"—the choicest of fine old Burley and other Domestic varieties.

But fine tobaccos alone are not enough. To achieve mildness with fullness, to preserve natural tobacco taste and character without a trace of heaviness, to produce a cigarette that satisfies and that, at the same time, is mild—here is a job that calls not only for the choicest tobaccos, but for the highest degree of skill in blending them.

And in the Chesterfield blend you have it—the exact balancing of one tobacco against another, the accurate toning and shading of each type of leaf, the rich mildness, the satisfying fullness, the rounded-out completeness which belong to Chesterfield and — because the blend can't be copied—to Chesterfield alone!

BUDGET POINTS OUT ECONOMIES

Boston Evening American Offers Aid to Housewives in Planning Expenditures of Income

BUDGET TALK NO. 83

By MARTHA LEE

NOW that spring sewing is done and the graduation festivities are about over, Budget suggests using at least a part of the month of July for the judicious spending of some of the money that should have accumulated under "Operating."

Under this heading comes all small household articles valued at less than $1. Now is a good time to think about replenishing dusters, dishcloths and the lettuce bag and to make over the household linens.

If you are going to beat Budget at his own game in saving pennies there are many helpful household economies. For instance, worn bed sheets can be quickly converted into narrow ones by tearing out the thin worn centres and hemming the selvedges together. Even the largest stitch your mach. is capable of and do not baste your seam. Rapid! Narrow sheets that are partly worn can often be made into pillow cases.

This is the season when odd bedspreads of mahogany can often be picked up on the bargain counter. I'd advise always picking the same stock pattern. White sales offer good values, too, for the clothing budgeter and cotton dress goods are easy below par right now.

Don't forget that Budget is going to make a great todo next Fall if he has to replace woolen goods on account of moth damage. Even though you are using golf stockings, sweaters, etc., during the Summer, they should be shaken out and aired regularly. Furs or woolens stored at home—and for valuable pieces this is poor economy—should be inspected once or twice during the summer or offener if you suspect moths are present.

Blanket cases for th woolen Winter bedding and bags for suits and overcoats made out of the worn sheets—all are Budget's helpers.

Budget marshals the family finances into orderly array. Without his aid the money is apt to get out of control.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

Mrs. N. B. S. is facing financial reverses with real courage. Home Budget will be the solution of her retrenching policy. Is giving up her apartment. Asks what she should pay for rent. Will have $60 a week income. Six in the family.

Here's a week's budget for furniture and $10 a week to pay for 10 weeks for medical bills. $60 a week standard budget usually allows $5 for savings, $10 for rent, including business carfares, $17.50 for food, $7.50 for clothing, $7.50 for operating, covering fuel, gas, light, telephone and laundry and $7.50 for personal. With six in the family however, you will need at least $12 a week for food, including business lunches which means that $5.50 has got to be pared off the other allotments somewhere. For the next ten weeks I would suggest living on a $40 budget which will give you $10 over for the back bill. The $5 for furniture should come out of personal.

The standard $40 budget is savings $4, rent $8, food $10, clothing $6, operating $6 and personal $6. Since you must have $5 for furniture you will only have $1 left under personal and will have to borrow $3 of the savings fund, $3 from operating and $3 from the clothing to help out on food.

Mrs. J. S. has an income of $28 to $30 weekly. Monthly expenses are rent $16, insurance $6, milk $2.50, laundry $2, light and gas $4. Pays cash for everything. Burns three tons of coal in Winter. Two in the family. Lives in good neighborhood and does not want to cut down on rent.

Dear Mrs. S.: Don't worry about the rent. It is not more than a standard budget would allow you. $28 is usually divided thusly: Savings $2.50, shelter $5.50, including business carfares, food $10, clothing $4, operating $4 and personal $2. The coal bill comes out of operating, insurance out of savings, milk out of the food allowance; gas and laundry out of operating. With study I think you can beat the food budget a little.

Mrs. H. M. G.'s husband has had his salary reduced to $32 for six months when he will go back to $35. He $28 a month, gas, light and telephone $1.25 per week, food, including milk $7.50. Three in family, incidentally six months old baby. Insurance $6.00. Has a car but will not put it under this budget.

A $27.50 budget is certainly no great joy. The standard allows you $4.40 for shelter, including business carfares, $6.50 for food, $2.30 for clothing, $4.40 for operating, $2.20 savings and $1.10 for personal. Since your rent exceeds this budget you will have to pare off the other allotments as best you can to cover it.

A $30 budget is a little more hopeful. It allows $2 for savings, $6 for rent including business carfares, $7.50 for food, $4.50 for clothing, $4.50 for operating and $4.50 for personal.

Mrs. V. A. S. is anxious to start a bank for $5 weekly. Puts in the family. Wants a way to send to college the eldest. Has only $150 saved up to date.

A weekly budget for $40 as savings $4, rent $8, food $10, clothing $4, operating $4 and personal $6. The coal bill comes out of operating, insurance out of savings, milk out of personal. You should average about $1,000 for the first year and out of this you should have at least $400 ready by September. That means that you must save $250 more in the next 28 months or approximately about $25 a week. You don't tell me what your rent is so I don't know whether or not you can spare some out of the shelter fund or not. Otherwise you will have to save something out of savings, food, operating and clothing.

WATCHING A CHILD AT PLAY

IT IS a real lesson in life—watching a child play.

There he trots, the tiny four-year-old, wooden spade in hand.

He wants to dig, to make a big, big hole.

"Sonny, why do you dig a hole?"

"I want to see how deep the earth goes down."

"And does it go far down?"

"Yes, it does, but I cannot get there."

Soon he gives it up to chase a big butterfly over the green meadow, or to make a daisy chain, or to pick a big bunch of those bright yellow flowers which he afterwards forgets to take home with him, or confers with a sweet smile to Nursie when he is tired of carrying them about in his small, sticky hand.

And watch the little chap beside a pond. How dearly he would like to go beyond the line of danger! That dark water is full of fearful pools!!!! Or would be a mortal danger for a small fellow who cannot swim!!!

But how mysterious, how frightfully attractive! God knows what is going on beneath that still surface, deep, deep down where the boy cannot see. Nearer and nearer he goes to the edge, as drawn by a magnet, and hangs over the peril below until Nursie seizes him suddenly from the back and drags him away.

Those marvelous sand castles on the seashore! He has been warned that the tide comes in, that he ought to build his castle in a safer place. But out there the sand is so much firmer, damper. Besides—that taste of danger enhances the joy. Perhaps he will succeed just the same where others have failed. And he will build, oh, such beautiful towers, high, high, till they touch the clouds!

He labors and toils at his castle, getting wet, grimy and tired. His spade breaks, but he digs and piles and pats on with his hands. The little crabs worry his pink toes, but he is going, despite everything, to build a castle bigger and finer than anyone else's and tomorrow he'll bring a little flag to put upon it!

But tomorrow, when he comes back, the castle has disappeared. Gone! Washed away by the greedy tide! Then tears and despair for an angry, shrieking moment, after which—he begins all over again!

Watch him at the zoo amongst the animals, watch him looking at pictures, watch him fuddling about in Mother's cupboards, in Nurse's workbox, and you'll see all the germs of later manhood in him—the desire to explore and discover, to approach danger and to escape from it. There is also defiance and recalcitrance, hope, imagination, poetry, laughter and tears, anxiety, impatience and the desire to possess and destroy. There is the will to succeed and also also, the discovery of human limitations.

Watch your children playing, or your neighbor's. You can learn lots by doing so, and very often you'll see an amazing parody of yourself!

"Boston to Broadway," as Revealed by George M. Cohan Himself

based to be and had been released to play, I twisted the thing around to a flop, impudent, dashing young juvenile in a low-comedy make-up. When the first act curtain fell, Williams panted to me:

"What are you trying to do, ruin the play? What's the matter with you, anyway?"

"What's the matter with you?" came back. "I made a hit, didn't I?" My family ran over to protect me. "The rest of the cast listened around, too.

"You go on there and play the part you were the rehearsed. Do you understand?" If you don't, you'd go out of that stage door with your things right after you." Then turning to dad, who stood there white with rage, Williams continued, "Jerry, did you do what this kid did to me in that last act?"

For the first time in his life dad took a swing at me. I ducked. Mother and Josie screamed with fright and I took it on the run to the stage door and out to the alley. Josie came rushing after me.

"Come on, George. You've got to dress for the second act. You don't want to hold the curtain." That hoof kid was talking like a leaf.

"Not a chance. I'm through with this troupe right now. That guy in there talking about ruining his play! Say, that girl, Tanda is it? I couldn't write a better play than that blindfolded, with my left hand. I'll do it and show him how it's done, Charles River."

I said this I parked myself on the tailboard of a transfer truck standing in the alley, and lit a cigarette. Josie came over to me and begged

"Please, George, please! The folks are in there, crying their eyes out. You can't quit in the middle of a performance."

At that moment Williams appeared at the stage door, his coat and vest off, his wig in his hand, and his collar loosened and dangling at his neck. He looked like a wild Indian as he came toward the truck, followed by mother, who was weeping, and dad with his arm about her, trying to console her, and the balance of the cast trooping on behind.

"George said he'd finish the performance, Mr. Williams. Everything's all right," Josie announced, as the train moved forward.

"What the hell are you doing out here?" Williams roared at me.

"Waiting for my trunk. You said you'd throw it out. Go ahead and do it." And I said this I slid from the tailboard and climbed to the driver's seat. I was afraid to let him get near enough to take a punch at me.

"Get down from there and come in and finish this show," dad hollered, and started to hop on the truck to get at me.

"Wait a second, Jerry. Don't do that." As mother said this she pulled him back.

"Yes, wait a minute, dad," I repeated as I stood on the front seat and raised my hand for silence. "I've got something to say to everybody here." I had sized up the house policeman coming through the stage door, followed by the entire crew carrying stage furiture and by the cast. They evidently thought was going to be an alley fight. In a flash I realized that I was "in bad," and decided to work fast and square myself as soon as I could.

"I'm sorry this thing happened." I went on "I apologize most abjectly" (I heard Williams use that word) "to you dad to mother, to Mr. Williams and everybody here. What I did in that first act I did with all the good intentions in the world."

The balance of the performance sailed along without any deaths being reported.

When the curtain fell Mr. Williams said:

"The only thing I'm sorry about is that these stage hands will more than likely imagine that you're a swelled-headed kid. Of course, we all know better, but you see——"

I interrupted him at this point "There's a star," I corrected him about me at all, Mr. Williams. I'm too smart to get that way. I could have had a swelled head a long time ago if I wanted to. Why, I've published over two hundred songs. Right now May Irwin is making the hit of her life with one of them

Look at all the sketches I've written for variety teams. I've got a dozen of 'em playing around the country at this minute. But I don't go bragging about it. No, sir, there's nothing swelled-headed about me. You didn't hear me making any wise cracks just because I appeared to take four or five encores on my specialty in the second act tonight, did you? No, sir. I'm not that sort of a little guy, and I want all the members of this company and the stage hands and everybody else to understand it, too."

Williams stood there staring at me for several seconds, and then broke into a hearty laugh. The balance of the troupe followed suit.

The Making of a Husband, Ann Lisle's Clever Serial

By Ann Lisle

"NO! But I was afraid I remembered how he had made up of me. I was afraid. When the audience applauded I thought they were laughing at me—ridiculing me. I broke. I was over thirty—too late to start the golden romance of some. "And became a great teacher!" I cried approvingly.

"And starved for five years in Maine trying to give concerts or lessons that nobody wanted to hear," Dora Peters. I was nearer forty than thirty then. I took my last thousand and came to New York. I hung out a little sign: "Dora Peters—and started for six months. But it is ten years since then and I am now—unless that is one of yours has undone the work of a lifetime."

Her soft voice became vindictive and bitter.

"Where did that picture come from?" she demanded. "I never photographed with that little Arlette your husband is so deeply concerned about."

The glance she sent me was veiled. Her frankness had disappeared. Was it hatred or warning that flashed to me from the little, deep set eyes of "Diane Petrezzi," nee Peters?

"You were never photographed with Arlette Valtay?" I asked, looking at Mme. Petrezzi in amazement. "Then where does this photograph come from?"

She held out her hands and shrugged her shoulders in a little gesture she had never learned in Maine nor yet in Georgia. There was the woman a new creature—there was something of the Italian peasant in her squat and powerful figure. I could visualize her living on spaghetti and fried bananas and making her frame heavy with the starches and fats she had probably learned to love during her sojourn in Italy.

"Where does it come from?" I repeated.

"You have never seen it standing around here?" she asked, indicating the living room of the Riches.

"No"

"I gave your husband one of the——"

"But that wouldn't——"

Arlette I broke in

"They could be superimposed—photographed easily enough. But this looks like one picture," I began, interrupting myself to tell Arlette I could sketch a picture from this and made it into a composition with the figure of Arlette added and then photographed it. But he couldn't—I'm not strong enough—he can't paint—or draw

"Who pray?" broke in Mme. Petrezzi impatiently.

"Arlette is the model for Nicholas Ferry's drawings," I said. "He is the artist spoken of in the caption under your picture. He has lost his hands—he doesn't use them—and yet——"

Brides usually ask whether I advise aluminum utensils or enamel ware. This is merely a matter of taste, as both will wear well. Aluminum of good grade will hold its shape well, but of course needs constant care if it is to be kept looking bright. Enamel utensils are attractive to look at and will stand up under the usual amount of wear and tear but a hard blow or careless

The RED LAMP by Mary Roberts Rinehart

Author of "THE BAT"

Absorbing Serial by Author of "The Bat"

(CHAPTER XXI)

August 3rd.

HALLIDAY, who is an early riser, burst in on us at the breakfast table, fairly bristling with excitement.

"Good morning, everybody!" he sang out, "Detective Sergeant Bentley came over yesterday and threw him off the case. At least, that's what they say at the police-office. Thirteen days he's been fooling around, and he couldn't get over the hump."

"If only he had stayed a little longer," Edith said regretfully, "and somebody had killed him! It's rotten bad luck, that's all."

The conversation had little or no meaning to Jane. She was I could see, puzzled by our excitement and unable to understand our relief. "Surely they have left somebody" she said. "We ought not to be left without protection. Who knows when something will break out again, and then where are we?"

The move is a totally unexpected one. Yesterday, as Halliday said, the Sheriff came over to the hotel and was closeted for an hour or two with Greenough. A bell boy reports Greenough sitting morosely at a table, and Bentley at the window, staring out.

Later, incredible, the rapidity with which news circulates here. The immediate result of Greenough's departure has been rather to revive the interest in the situation than otherwise. I dare say as long as the police were on the case the people more or less lay back and depended on them; now they are thrown once more onto their own resources, and a variety of opinions and even of clues are being exchanged at that central clearing house, the post-office. Thus:

Village Talk

This morning the news of a man named Vaughn was found, had died in a corner of the field, giving every evidence of having been run to death during the night.

(To the common sense suggestion of a dog being the culprit, pitying glances.)

A stranger three days ago tried to buy a large knife in the hardware store.

(Later shown to be the Livingstone's new butler seeking a carving knife.)

The second keeper at the lighthouse has resigned, declaring the place is haunted.

(This is true, so far as the resignation goes. He has, it appears, asked to be transferred. But Ward says there has been no repetition of the strange affair the night of the storm.)

A car driven recklessly and without lights has been seen twice near the Hilburn Road, both times after midnight.

"There seems a certain authenticity in this," the bowman declared, "its lights until fairly close to another car, when it shuts them off entirely. There may be, of course, some defect in the dimmers.)

My own relief is beyond words. Looking in my shaving mirror today, I am startled at the change in me the last few weeks. The Lears are coming out to dinner tonight. More power to them.

August 4th.

The party last night was a great success. Lear had brought out a bottle of claret, and with candles on the table and six wine glasses easily borrowed from Annie Cochran at the main house, we took on quite a festive air. Lear kicked a little puzzled when, at Edith's suggestion, she, Halliday and myself drank to the absent one" but otherwise all was well.

We divided after the meal, Jane and Helena to talk Edith and Halliday for the boat-house and a canoe, and Lear and I to pace the drive with our cigars.

THE uncertainty and insecurity of the old-time "sanitary pad" has been ended. Scientific protection now supplants it.

Wear sheer gowns, keep up with social and business requirements, at all times . . . without handicap.

"KOTEX" is a new and remarkable way . . . five times as absorbent as ordinary cotton pads.

You discard it as easily as a piece of tissue. No laundry. No embarrassment.

Absorbs and deodorizes at the same time. Thus ending ALL fear of offending.

You get it for a few cents at any drug or department store simply by saying "KOTEX." Women ask for it without hesitancy.

Try Kotex. Comes 12 in a package. Proves old ways an unnecessary risk.

KOTEX

Lear's quiet face and general demeanor and perhaps the need of a fresh mind on the conditions here, impelled me to tell my story, to which he listened without interruption.

His opinion is that we have to do with a homicidal maniac, and that the sheep-killing was prelim

"Of course, I am no psychiatrist he said, "but what other explanation have you?"

"None at all." I admitted "Of course, if I meant to commit a series of crimes I might find it useful to establish my insanity first. I doubt if any jury, once convinced that the murderer and the sheep-killer are the same, would doubt his essential lunacy."

Lear's Idea

"On the other hand," Lear said, in his cold academic voice, "the man who sets out to commit such a series of crimes as this is unbalanced. He doesn't have to kill sheep to make a plea of that sort. He may present an entirely rational face to the world, but something has slipped, you can depend on it."

The supernatural angle of the case he put aside with a wave

"I won't even argue it," he said "I utterly refuse to be influenced by it. I am not denying that. But it's not stuff to be meddled with, when the Lord only knows what is at the root of it.

And I am no peeping Tom."

"In your place," he continued, "I would forget it. If you get really to the point where you think you have something, send for Cameron and let him look into it. But keep out of it yourself. Porter's a bad mediator."

I took them to the 11 o'clock train, and have only just returned. But I think it would amuse Lear, in spite of his hands-off attitude, to know that as I drove into the garage and shut off the lights and the engine, in the very act of getting out of the car I heard once more that peculiar dry cough, the faint slow footfall, and smelled again that curious herbal odor which I shall, all the days of my life, associate with my Uncle Horace.

So unexpected was it, coming on top of the happiest evening of the Summer, that I stood for a moment immovable. Then I leaped from the terrifying darkness of the garage out into the moonlight, and there confronted young Gordon, standing outside and quietly smoking.

"Hello!" I said, when I could speak. "Out again, Gordon?"

"Yes. That place gets my goat," he replied. "I guess I'm jumpy since the other night."

He looked badly, and I asked him if he cared to sit down before starting back. But he refused.

Professor Startled

"I'll get hell if he finds I've left the house," he said elegantly.

I turned and walked back with him toward the house, and seeing him secretly amused about something, asked him. "Just cough," whereupon he said that he was thinking of the way I had shot out of the garage.

"Put something over on you there, didn't I?"

"You startled me. What do you mean?"

"I guess you know," he said, with his side-long glance. "That cough."

"You mean, the light-house story?"

He fell again into one of his secret convulsions of mirth.

"Oh, Professor, mean the light-house!" he said and turning abruptly, strode off through the trees.

I can take from this as much or as little as I will. Is it possible that London heard the cough in the house, and associates it with the other sounds of which he has complained to Annie Cochran? Or has he merely been told of it, and with his perverted fling of humor been deliberately haunting me with it.

If I am to believe my recent reading on the subject of criminals frequently do, after death, the things they did most frequently in life, your butler returns on horseback, and is seen alone on country roads, ladies of ancient time who dislike the use to ledwith candles seem to go on perennially, reprimand God knows what unmerited, cowsh with the same everlasting candle in their hands.

But, to record, in all seriousness, the possibility that they carry with them, without the flesh, the weaknesses of that flesh, is beyond my power of credulity.

What Is a Good-Looking Man?

Flappers Know but They Don't All Agree

Drawn by NELL BRINKLEY

HERE is the approved, the crowned, nineteen twenty-six Apollo, the ideal young man of the American flappers heart. If we can believe our ears when they have a chatter party! If we can believe the pictures of dividend heroes that are to be found in more routine—both the best and the worst—if we can believe in the current movie-idol!

But it isn't likely that the rest of the flappers in the world would agree with her! You see the average flapper in the world—and they are of many different kinds. Apollo himself is dark or fair, short or tall, pagan lover or statesman, fat-faced, ship-nosed, long-nosed, bluish-red, bruise, fierce, gentle, savage or civilized, according to the locale. And you must remember that there are many "locales"!

So you can see for yourself that the flapper's heart is not going to take to think like the young American. Of the world in masculine beauty. His nose would not be fat enough to suit her fancy, and not golden enough in color. His eyes would be too shockingly wide open.

And when you look at half the dark Apollos of other flappers' delight you are dead sure that almost as a chorus they would sing out that this handsome boy of ours had, TOO much CHIN.

The Indian girl makes her self eyes at a very different young man than our flapper's idol.

Of course it is much greater fun to be an artist than a flapper who is not one. For then one sees the peculiar beauty of each pedestalled hero. And one sees his faults also. NELL BRINKLEY.

and shook her father. Startled he blinked at her.

"Where's Mona?" Merry asked

"Mona?" Dad repeated vaguely, as he rubbed the back of his neck. "Oh, yes, your mother—Why, let's see, Merry—she went over to Mrs. Jones' house about nine o'clock."

Merry ran back to the hall. She knew it meant Mona and Derrick Jones' mother settled down for an evening of gossip.

"All right," she said breathlessly to the telephone and heard Tony Haines echo her words.

"All right—I'll be right over."

"Merry, come in here a minute," Dad called, just as she was turning toward the stairs. "I want to speak to you."

She came to him, her feet dragging, her body swinging defiantly.

"Who was that on the phone just now?" he asked, jerking his head toward the hall

"You wouldn't know him," she said after a minute. "His name is Anthony Gaines. He's a lawyer."

"What did he want to see you about at this time of night?"

Merry groaned theatrically

"Dad, what in the world is the matter with you?" asking me a million questions for all of a sudden! What's so terrible, anyway, about talking to a man on the telephone?"

Instead of answering her, her father took her by one arm and drew her down to the arm of his chair.

"Mary Ann," he said quietly and I worry about you sometimes"

"About me?" Merry asked, surprised. "I don't know why you do, slowly, "you're growing up, aren't you? You're getting to be a woman and I should worry about you. I know my way about, alone. Why, Dad, what

OUR teecher was telling us about sun spots. She sed she that we was old enuff to know that there was spots on the sun.

Yure teecher is quite rite, Bobbie, sed Pa, wen I towld he & Ma but nite. If there is spots on the sun you have a rite to know about it, sed Pa. What did yure teecher say those spots was?

She sed they was gas, I sed. She sed the gas made a whirl like a Si Clone, & that was what looked like big spots.

How did they git on the sun in the first place? I sed. How did the gas git there? & how did the sun git there to begin with? I sed to my old gent.

Well, Bobbie, sed Pa, nobody seams to be very clear on that subjeck. It is a kind of deep subject for kids to be studying. It seams so me, sed Pa.

It seams to me it is a deep subjeck for kids futhers, too, sed Ma.

Perhaps you can inform Bobbie how the sun got thare in the first pla-e, sed Pa.

Maybe I can explane to Bobbie about the sun, sed Ma. You see, Bobbie, sed Ma, the sun is a grate mass of gas, sed Ma. It is very brilyunt, sed Ma.

Why am I like the sun, Bobbie? sed Pa.

Beekaus you are a mass of gas, I sed.

No, no, sed Pa, beekaus I am brilyunt.

What do you mean, yung man, sed Pa, calling me a mass of gas? sed Pa.

Ma was laffing so hard that Pa had to laff too & that is well, otherwyse he mite of gotiv me a bust on the seet of the pants, laffing is a grate thing. It gevvs kids moar spankings than Pa does & I have tryed both sun- roar for the beeause.

DAILY SHORT STORY

COMRADES

By Mabel McKee

COMRADE O'NEAL was off a day just to enjoy memories. Comrade O'Neal with his beautiful, white hair, his cropped white moustache, his thin hands that sometimes shook as he held his cane and his shoulders, which he tried to make straight in spite of the weight of his eighty-one years.

Always when he got very lonely he went out to the soldiers' circle in Woodlawn cemetery to have memories. Always he kneeled at row after row of plain little headstones there, on which were the names of his comrades of '61 and his eyes grew tender at the memory of days he and those boys of '61 had had together. And always he said, "The real ashes don't come from losing your friends. They come from losing your faith in them."

Then he always went back to his fretful daughter-in-law and her sarcastic children and went smiling through another month or two.

Sometimes while at the cemetery, he met other people close to his soldiers circle and chatted with them. Usually they were little boys who liked to hear soldiers' stories or old men, who, too, wanted to talk about the days of '61.

But this day Comrade O'Neal met The Girl. She was sitting on his favorite bench close to the Herbert Memorial fountain—sitting looking into the far away blue skies and at times wiping a tear or two from her eyes.

Comrade O'Neal knew instantly she was in trouble. He edged closer to the bench, and closer until finally he dared to sit down on the bench. He made a great deal of racket with his cane. Her hand twitched and he noticed the plain gold band on the third finger of her hand. And then Comrade O'Neal knew she was weeping about the man who had placed it there.

"He might be dead," Comrade O'Neal said to himself. "But I have a feeling from her eyes that he is just unfaithful. The hardest blows that come are those which come because of loss of faith."

He spoke to the girl. "Do you see that grave over there?" he pointed to a sunken, moss beset mound with a vase of roses. "Comrade Nick Sena lies there. We fought together at the Wilderness."

The girl turned toward him. She wanted to be polite to the old man in spite of her trouble. She asked mechanically, "Did you put flowers there?"

Comrade O'Neal shook his head. "His daughter puts them there every Sunday," he answered. "Nick loved flowers so much."

Soon he was in the midst of the story of Nick. He went back to the days when he and Nick loved the same girl and Nick won her; back to the days when they marched away together and back to the days when they nearly died in Libby prison.

After that they came home together. Nick studied law and was admitted to the bar. "He wasn't much good at making money—Nick wasn't," Comrade O'Neal admitted, "but he was a terrible hand with the women, always falling into some affair or other.

"Just seemed like Nellie, his wife, had to pull him out of them all the time," he said. "But she never gave him up no matter what happened. She always said that she'd stick to her job as Nick stuck to his when he went to the war and to prison. Nick was terribly sick but he always stuck to his colors."

Finally the old man told of Nick's death. "Seemed like Nicky knew he belonged to the colors more than to her," he murmured. "For when we asked her where she wanted him buried she said, 'Around the circle with the boys to whom he was so faithful.'"

The girl gave a start. She wondered if the old soldier knew how much like her own life was that of Nellie Small—how unfaithful to her Bob Harrington was, and how faithful was his friend Richard Brown who had loved her and wanted to marry her when she had chosen Bob.

Right now Bob was in another affair. And she didn't know when it would end. Richard had told her not to come to him for aid unless she loved him and was ready to leave Bob.

She had come to the cemetery to lay flowers on a tiny grave there. She had wanted to say good-bye to it for if she went away with Dick as he asked her to, she wouldn't visit that little shrine for a long, long time.

Impulsively she put out her hand and touched the old man's. "And you—when you saw Nellie in need and suffering," she asked, "didn't it hurt you?"

"Hurt me?" Quick tears came to his eyes. "I'll say it hurt. But I had to just endure and help Nellie in ways she never knew. I wouldn't do anything to hurt her because I loved her and I couldn't hurt Dick because we were—"

"Buddies," the girl finished.

"No," the old man straightened his shoulders, "we were comrades."

A sudden gust of wind blew over one of the flags fastened into the Grand Army of the Encampment markers that circled the many graves. He rose from his seat and stiffly walked across the intervening space to straighten it.

The girl watched him. Murmuring, she talked to herself. "Bob works hard and he loves me. He's just a wanderer from the beaten path at times. His father was before him. I knew it and so does Dickey. And Bob was Dick's buddy in France and saved his life. He was—"

"Comrades," she seemed to hear the old veteran say. "I couldn't hurt her because I love her and I couldn't hurt him because we were comrades."

Then she went back to the tiny grave under a little tree she said: "Here I am, Bob had set out a few months before. She picked out the spot for the smaller rambler rose she and Bob would bring out the next Sunday. He would come if she asked him and now she would do that. For, after all, she wasn't going to allow Nellie Small to be a more thorough sport of a soldier's wife than she would be.

Smiling hopefully she walked through the cemetery gate and boarded a car for her home.

But it was almost dark when Comrade O'Neal walked through that same gate. He had gone to trim the grass and water the flowers on Nellie Small's lonely grave after he left the circle. But before that he had covertly watched the girl. His eagle eyes, which knew human nature mighty well, read her decision. Now, he too, was smiling.

"Well," he told the old gatekeeper of the cemetery as he left, "I've watched the boys of the Great War do many things to aid my comrades. And today I feel like I've had a chance to do something for a Buddy. I am not so sure he was one, but anyway he's a boy right here in our own town. That is, if I'm reading the future and past right, and I be

ADVICE TO LOVELORN

By Beatrice Fairfax

DEAR MISS FAIRFAX:

I am twenty-one and am going about with a man twenty-three years my senior. My parents seriously object to this, saying that old age and youth are incompatible.

Kindly advise me whether such a great difference in age will hurt my chances for happiness. M. S.

I AGREE with your parents that twenty-three years is too great a discrepancy in age to permit of lastingly happy companionship and congenial marriage.

JOHN D. ROCKEFELLER invests in decent homes for working people at reasonable rents. Details will be made public today.

Mr. Rockefeller's intention is to avoid charity, demonstrating that dwellings can be constructed on a big scale, with every comfort, including playgrounds for children and private parks attached to the buildings, bath rooms, resident doctors, etc., within moderate prices, about $9 per room per month.

THE THING will be done on a small scale at first, sufficiently for a few hundred families. Success might lead to the investment of hundreds of millions in such enterprises and enable families of small means to live in comfortable, healthful apartments at a rent no greater than has been charged by landlords in the slums. The plan won't please slum landlords.

nation against Coolidge or any other nominee of the Republican party."

That 1928 campaign will be interesting, and there will be more than two important issues involved.

AN EXCELLENT example was set by the Metropolitan Life Insurance Company. Mr. Haley Fiske, president of the company, and Mr. Stabler, finance adviser, demonstrating that the company's money could be safely invested in dwellings that would prolong the lives of employes and others insured in the company.

THE PRESIDENT in a thoughtful speech on the budget, says: "Your Uncle Sam is rich, that's true. We have actually $330,000,000 more than we need for 1926. But that is no excuse for squandering. We must be MORE economical, cut down expenses every year."

Another cut of $836,192,888 reduces the public debt to nineteen billion six hundred and eighty millions of dollars.

If necessary, Uncle Sam could pay all that debt by using one-third of the national income for one year.

We are rich, but, as the President says, that is no excuse for waste.

SUMMER HAS BEGUN and poor Wall Street bears, expecting the "usual Summer slump," are still waiting for that slump. Stocks went up again yesterday, steel, oils, railroads, automobiles.

Gambling at Monte Carlo, or on the stock ticker, means ruin. But whatever you do, don't sell American values short. A country with a revenue of seventy-five billion dollars a year, owing only nineteen billions, isn't exactly "a sell."

A MAGNIFICENT new electric locomotive, the world's largest and most powerful, weighs 283,350 pounds, is sixty-five feet long, driven by six motors, with 4,500 horsepower.

One man can handle this locomotive that will pull an express train with ease at more than 100 miles an hour.

Will it run between the Atlantic and the Pacific cutting the time to two days? No, unfortunately, it will run in Switzerland, where government owns railroads and seems to do well, in spite of our theory that government ownership cannot succeed. Perhaps the Swiss are abler than we are, perhaps more honest, perhaps both.

WE TALK airplanes, Europe builds and uses them. A London newspaper reporter visited seven European capitals in seven days, and reports air travel "more convenient and cheaper than any other."

THE ONE discomfort is noise. Some American mechanic in Detroit, Cleveland, Toledo, Indianapolis, or elsewhere in this country, ought to remedy that.

ABD-EL-KRIM, who recently surrendered to France, has put in a hurry order for European clothes for himself and his two sons, including fashionable Summer flannels. That is more sensible than trying to fight airplanes from the back of a beautiful Arab steed.

RHYMING OPTIMIST

WE catch but a glance as we hurry along of the people we pass in the city's vast throng; they are glimpsed, they are gone, like the foam on a wave, and a sigh or a smile is the memory we save. It is but a fragment we know of our friends, though they walk by our side till the long journey ends; but a fragment at best of their hopes and their fears and the dreams that they dream through the fast-flying years. But a fragment we know of their loss and their gain, of the burdens they bear, of their pleasure and pain; how, then, dare we to judge of their motives and deeds, of their soaring desires and their ultimate needs?

MEIGS IS MADE PUBLISHER OF BIG PAPER

Won Fame as Grid Star; Attains Success in Business When but 43

Los Angeles, Cal., June 17, 1926.

Mr. Roy D. Keehn, President Illinois Publishing Company, Chicago, Ill.:

Dear Mr. Keehn—I know it will give you much satisfaction to announce in the Herald and Examiner that Mr. M. C. Meigs, your very able friend and associate, has been made publisher of the Chicago Herald and Examiner.

I believe that Mr. Meigs' appointment will give equal satisfaction to the readers and business patrons of the paper.

His long experience in journalism has highly developed his exceptional abilities, fortified his judgment and won for him the confidence of the business community.

WELL FITTED FOR PLACE.

Mr. Meigs, like yourself, began his association with the Herald and Examiner when, at the University of Chicago, he was correspondent for the paper. As an undergraduate he became definitely associated with the newspaper company and has held more and more responsible positions every year since that time.

His connection with the Chicago papers, his lifelong residence in Chicago, his wide acquaintance and his genius for journalism made him, to my mind, and I know to yours, peculiarly fitted for the position which he now assumes.

Sincerely,
WILLIAM RANDOLPH HEARST.

It is a great pleasure for me to comply with Mr. Hearst's request. I have known Mr. Meigs for twenty-two years and have been closely associated with him during the greater part of that period.

I cannot think of anything that would be of greater benefit to the great Herald and Examiner property than to have him in charge as publisher. ROY D. KEEHN.

President Illinois Publishing Co.

FOUGHT WAY TO SUCCESS.

To write of Merrill C. Meigs, newspaper publisher of Chicago and Examiner, is to write of the epic of the Middle West. "Of Chicago's cull and challenge to youth and to the age, virile character and broad vision," marvelously expressed. It's great today and greater tomorrow.

For his is of it and by it. His life is an expression of the boundless opportunities; his achievement a symbol of its amazing growth.

Born on a farm, he has been so many of the city's self-made men, he followed the plow until he was seventeen, when he went to Hamilton, Wis., to sell threshing machines and steam engines for the old J. I. Case Threshing Machine Company.

His ability so impressed the officials of the company that at the end of a year he was sent to South America, with headquarters at Buenos Aires. For four years he represented the company as salesman and demonstrator, not only in the Argentine and kindred countries, but in England, Portugal and France.

He was making good, but he wasn't satisfied. He was to get the fact himself in the Spanish and Russian languages. He entered the University of Chicago to become "accidentally one of its greatest athletes."

Even in his freshman year Meigs was hailed as a find by Coach Stagg, who declared him a perfect specimen of the young college athlete in stature." His intellectual stature was in progression.

WON FAME AS ATHLETE.

And to thousands of Chicagoans he is still known as "Babe" Meigs, the lithe bemowned jumper who at the University when he was making history in football, baseball and swimming. In 1905 he played end in the championship U. of C. eleven that won the title from Michigan in the memorable 2-to-0 game.

That was when Meigs first became associated with the Chicago Herald papers. Still earning his own way, he filled with notable ability the post of campus correspondent for the Examiner. Leaving college he returned to the J. I. Case Company as advertising manager, but Chicago beckoned to him and in 1914 he became its advertising solicitor for the Examiner.

Again Meigs was not satisfied with himself. He wanted to advance himself in the science of his chosen profession. At the end of a year he went to the Lord & Thomas Agency and served under the personal supervision of Albert D. Lasker for three years.

It was in 1917 that Meigs went to the Chicago Evening American as advertising manager and assistant publisher and began the brilliant record of achievement that is topped today with his appointment as publisher of the Herald and Examiner.

PLAYED GAME SQUARELY.

Meigs' friends will tell you that nobody has ever envied his success, and the students and alumni of the University of Chicago have a saying that "Babe Meigs always played the game clean and square." In the great game of life he has played it the same.

Just 43 years old, on the threshold of life in the city of marching destiny, the record of one achievement already written, the record of the other in the making, the Herald and Examiner congratulates itself.

WILLARD PLAN REPORTED FOR LARGER B. & O.

By FRANK H. MELOON,
Financial Editor.

State Street hears that Daniel Willard is at present working on plans for building the greater Baltimore & Ohio system he has had in mind since absorption of country's railroads was first discussed. He has already referred to be Chicago, Indianapolis & Western, which gives Baltimore & Ohio short-cut route from Fort Wayne, Ind., to Chicago and is now being leased to be used by Reading shares in open market. It will view to acquiring that line and its subsidiaries. Central Railroad of New Jersey, Lehigh Valley & New England, inclusion of these lines would give Baltimore & Ohio system 7,602 miles, compared with 5,196 in Baltimore & Ohio proper.

Joseph B. Eastman, Boston man, chairman of the Interstate Commerce Commission, previously cited in this column as ever alive to the best interests of New England, is now an LL. D., honored by Amherst College, President Coolidge's alma mater. I have heard a number of favorable comments on Eastman's action in State Street circles.

The colleges pay their respects annually to "big business," as well as to letters and arts. The Boston News Bureau cites the fact that commencement month is witnessing the usual award of honorary degrees on the part of the nation's colleges and universities, and busies itself this year also to the task of handing away with the leading honors. At Ann Arbor the University of Michigan awarded the degree of Doctor of Engineering to Henry Ford in recognition of his material contribution to social welfare and his constructive imagination in the field of industry, while Silas Mason "whose genius created an industry that changed the world." It was the twenty-fifth of the sort ever accepted by Mr. Ford.

Rail men came in for a goodly share of honors. Syracuse University conferred degrees on Alfred Harry W. Thornton, president of Canadian National Railways, and on Patrick G. Cowlesky, president of New York Central, while Edward J. Pearson, president of the New York, New Haven & Hartford, was hailed as "M. A." by Trinity College at Hartford.

At Hamilton, N. Y., Colgate University conferred an honorary degree to Major Gen. James G. Harbord, president of the Radio Corporation of America, and Owen D. Young was honored Prof. Michael I. Pupin, radio inventor and investigator.

Whatever the "mysterious plans" were that resulted in starting General Motors again skyward, there is no question that the sharp and unexpected Ford price reductions have thrown a monkey wrench into the machinery. Whether this can be repaired is a question, but the Ford cuts, which are waste, will be the industrial struggle between Ford and General Motors, the two giants of the auto world.

We Trust Our Judgment

And Usually It Is Wrong

Man's judgment, which he thinks based on solid UNMOVABLE FACTS, is only as strong as his intellect, which is usually rather weak.

If a man smokes too much, and you advise him to keep the cigar in his mouth without lighting it, he will tell you that there is no satisfaction in THAT.

When you prove to him that in the dark he cannot tell whether he has in his mouth a cigar lighted or unlighted he is surprised. But he goes on smoking LIGHTED cigars.

Ask the average man, "Would you trust your own nerves? If you put one hand in water would you know whether it was cold or hot, and would you be able to swear to it?"

Ninety-nine out of a hundred would answer "Yes." Well, try this experiment:

Take three bowls of water, one as hot as you can comfortably stand it, one very cold, one lukewarm. Put your left hand in the HOT water, your right hand in the COLD water, keep them in for a moment. Then put both hands in the lukewarm water. The left hand will tell you that it is cold, your right hand that it is hot.

It is hard to gauge accurately the value of testimony in law courts, hard to judge the value of evidence given by your own nerves. All depends on CONDITIONS.

The mind itself is confused, with conflicting currents of thought.

Mr. Calkins quotes the following interesting "dilemma," contained in an old school book:

"Epaminondas, the Cretan, says: 'All men are liars.' But Epaminondas, the Cretan, is a man; therefore, a liar; therefore, what he says is not true, and all men are NOT liars.

"But in that case Epaminondas spoke the truth, and so forth."

You could carry on that indefinitely.

That which we take for granted, absolutely certain and positive today will become in future years part of "ancient, foolish superstition." Not so many years ago one thing was considered absolutely certain, that the earth STOOD STILL, while the sun went around it. If you had suggested to anybody then that the earth was round, that it was constantly turning going around the sun, and that the sun only SEEMED to go around the earth, you would have been laughed at. In fact, you would have been lucky if something WORSE did not happen to you.

In those days men were put in jail and even burned alive for saying things that seemed to contradict the Bible. The Bible says that Joshua made the sun stand still to make the day last longer.

That they thought was sufficient proof that the sun went around the earth. If it hadn't gone around the earth, Joshua could not have told it to stand still.

Every child knows now that the earth turns on its axis, while the sun SEEMS to go around. All we can do, with our feeble minds, is to study carefully, observe FACTS, take nothing for granted and never be too sure that we are right or that the other man is wrong.

Asia, Old and New

A CHINESE SOLDIER OF TODAY. THINK ABOUT HIM.

In this type of a modern fighting Chinese, one of the Kuo-Min-Chun fighting men, you see OLD ASIA and NEW ASIA, in the same person.

In the Chinaman's right hand is the OLD ASIA. That hand carries a "beheading sword," the kind of sword that the Chinese executioners use as they walk along a row of criminals stretched on the ground, and chop off each head as they come to it. The Chinese criminal awaits his turn patiently, never tries to run away.

That fatalistic waiting and the beheading sword represent OLD ASIA, the Asia that used to march against western Europe, riding on little ponies, carrying primitive weapons.

Now look at the left hand of this Chinese soldier, holding a modern, up-to-date "automatic." That is the NEW Asia. That new Asia is building flying machines, knows how to run them. It has in its service armored trains with searchlights and field guns.

We are FRIENDLY with Asia. Asia is friendly with us, NOW. But Asia is big. China alone has five times as many people as the United States. They don't object to dying, they carry out orders, and a yellow man can pull the trigger of an "automatic" as well as a white man.

This picture should interest the Government of the United States, responsible for the SAFETY of the United States.

DUTY PLUS VIM IS OPPORTUNITY

By DR. FRANK CRANE

DUTY is the idea by which we rob ourselves of the joy of work.

The pleasure of the soul is self-expression. Self-expression is found perfectly in work. Whoever has discovered his work has come upon the secret of happiness.

That is, provided he does not spoil it all by putting the duty-thought upon it and making it drudgery.

Of course, one should do his duty, and is for it entitled to his reward and praise. It is not that I would rob him of his deserts. It is because he is missing the finest element of his deserts.

Why not call it Privilege, instead of Duty? The one word connotes a banquet, the other a whip; one the chosen opportunity of a free man, the other the forced labor of a slave.

A soldier goes to war because it is his duty, but the best soldier, the one that gets the inner satisfaction of heroism, is the one who steps forward to volunteer for some enterprise of danger.

It's a wife's duty to take care of her children, to keep the home, and to make her husband happy; but she is not much of a success if a sense of duty is all that moves her, if she has not the inspiration of love that makes a woman glad to be a wife and mother.

Duty is iron; Privilege is golden.

The college boy whom his father compels to go to school, and who has only the feeling of duty to keep him at his books, is not going to get the good out of his opportunities that the boy gets who is working his way, and looks upon the school as an inestimable Privilege.

Duty, unrelieved, made the hard Puritan.

Duty, alone, makes a faithful clerk. But when it is lit up by a sense of opportunity, and the clerk transforms his duty by his enthusiasm, the first thing you know he owns the business.

Duty is stern; Privilege is joyous.

The great Teacher called on us to take His yoke upon us; but it was a transforming yoke; "Ye shall find rest," He added.

When we put enthusiasm, vim, and interest in anything we have to do, Work becomes Play, Labor becomes Craftsmanship, Duty smiles and is changed to Opportunity.

Duty obeys the Law. Privilege knows no Law, but operates by Love; and Love is the fulfilling of the Law.

Duty, taken alone, is dead. The joy of doing comes from the emotions. Whatever we do without feeling, whatever is not the forthputting of soul energy, is second-rate. We are artisans, not artists.

Duty is cold. And cold contracts. Duty, alone, makes life Wintry and bleak.

Pour love into your work. Let the labor of your hands be the gestures of the soul, and you are carried up to the heights of genius by the exhilaration of the outflowing forces.

What the nation needs is not merely a sense of patriotic Duty, but an overwhelming passion to serve.

Neither can any man go far without it.

No nation is safe without enthusiasm.

LISTEN, WORLD!

By ELSIE ROBINSON

"LET them pet," says Dr. Thomas Coe Little, official psychiatrist of San Diego County, California.

Dr. Thomas thinks the youngsters should have MORE liberty—not less. He believes that we should do away with many of the taboos and conventions which restrict the association of young people before marriage. Pet and don't make the mistake of a hasty marriage, is his cure for the divorce evil.

"Love is only the position of two people on the same mental plane," says Dr. Little. "Just as soon as they discover that they are not on the same plane, love stops. Familiarity often accomplishes this. That is why long engagements would stop the divorce evil. The more people not on the same mental level know each other the less they want to marry. If after marriage they discover that they are not on the same mental plane they turn to divorce.

Of Little Use

"Let your young men and young women get their bumps and their experiences. The girl who has been taught to go after what she wants is not sold on a petting party. For here there is no danger in it. But by prohibiting our boys and girls from having their natural fun in the parlor we are responsible for the clandestine automobile parties.

"There is no such thing as too much freedom. If people were educated to use freedom, there would be no need for laws."

Which listens wonderful. But moves us to the impertinent question—

DID DR. THOMAS COE LITTLE EVER PET?

If so, did said petting party help him to discover the young lady's "mental plane?"

We will bet the second mortgage on our next week's pay envelope that it did NOT. If there's one thing you're NOT bothering about when you're petting it's mental planes. The less mental plane you have when you stage your petting party, the cooler time is enjoyed by all.

Moreover, even if you could discover your partner's intellectual rhythm by sampling his or her lip stick and shaving lotion we fail to see whigs mental planes are going to save matrimony.

The reason that marriages fail is not because two people "are not on the same mental plane," but because they won't buckle in and do their share on any plane. Two lovers may both be simply crazy about them and all smoked up over Little Theatres and absolutely en rapport concerning block prints and socialism and free verse and yet—

If he won't pick up his dirty bath towels and clean out his safety razor—

If she won't get up in time to cook his breakfast—

If he bores her to death with his beefing about the lack of appreciation he gets—

And she gets all tangled up with soul vibrations when she ought to be sewing buttons on his clothes—

Bound For Rocks

And they both insist on being peevish personalities when they ought to be a tractable team—

That marriage is going to BUST—

And all the pre-marital petting won't keep it from doing so.

But on the other hand, pre-marital petting may do a great deal to hasten that unhappy end. For petting is emotion of indulgence, and paves the way for more emotional indulgence, such as leaving razors for the wife to clean or refusing to get up and cook breakfast for the husband.

It may be true that we don't need more laws in this country. I'm inclined to agree with that remark. But we DO need a lot more discipline—a lot more consideration for the other fellow's rights—a lot more insistence on old fashioned duty and decency.

NEW SCHOOL SINGS LOW ON PATRIOTISM

By Garrett P. Servis,

Noted Astronomer and Writer on Scientific Topics of Popular Interest

PROFESSOR McELROY, formerly of Princeton, who is lecturing on American history at Oxford, England, seems from the published reports of what he has been saying, to have singular ideas about what our forefathers fought the war of the Revolution for. He is equally aberrant in his notion of what American history writers for American readers and students should be.

Of course, he has a right to his own opinion, but one does not readily see why our ways of teaching our history to our own people should be criticized by an American before English collegians. But in this he simply represents the "new school" of history writers who believe in singing very low, or not singing at all, when it comes to patriotic sentiment. From the extreme of "my country right or wrong," they would rush to the opposite extreme of "no country is worth fighting for."

A real national hero is a red rag to some of these persons, and they come as near the fighting spirit as they can get when compelled to hear the praises of such heroes as Paul Jones or Ethan Allen or George Rogers Clark, while they would most ungallantly shut brave Molly Pitcher out of the scene.

Professor McElroy is reported to have affirmed in one of his lectures at Oxford—and somebody has been at the pains to cable it across the sea—that "until recently" American history text books "merely repeated accounts of the Revolution which in reality were nothing except war Propaganda, necessitated in those days in order to carry the war to a successful conclusion."

What History Is

Supposing this to be true—which of course it isn't—what does he imagine that history really consists of? Thucydides has been accepted as the most philosophical of historians, and what did he do in recounting the history of Athens? He told no thrilling stories, to be sure—he hadn't that gift—but he filled his pages with patriotic addresses and the arguments and appeals of the leaders and fighters, because he knew that such "propaganda" was a most important part of the res gestae; it revealed the spirit and reason that governed the actors in the great drama that he was describing.

If we should emasculate our history, as these professed reformers would like to have it, American readers would be thrown into a quandry, unable to discover any sufficient reason for the coming into existence of a great nation called the United States of America.

They would have to contemplate Washington as a crazy revolutionist, illogically fighting good, kind, old King George and his hired mercenaries in their friendly efforts to keep the Colonists loyal to royalty, submissive to Old World control and blind to their own manifest destiny.

That would indeed be a fine sort of American history to present to our children, in which excuses were made for the Declaration of Independence, and from which were excluded the blazing speeches of Patrick Henry, the inspired appeals of Thomas Paine and the thoughtful counsels of Benjamin Franklin in "the days that tried men's souls!" That would be telling the truth with a vengeance! Do you find any such self-denial and excess of modesty put into English history? They know better! They understand that propaganda is the soul of war—and the soul of history, too.

Don't Denature It

Abuse history as much as you choose; call it bunk if you like — but don't denature it.

One of the most surprising things attributed to Professor McElroy in his Oxford utterances is an attempt to excuse the British burning of Washington and their other severities on this side of the ocean during the war of 1812, but the extraordinary suggestion that France would have done the same, and Spain would have done the same, if the chances of war had afforded either of them the opportunity! Could anything better illustrate the mental clouds that obscure the thinking of the extreme pacifists, and the emasculators of history?

And the pity is that it is all done without necessity. The English people are not asking to have excuses made for their past acts. They have built up a vast empire because they have cultivated patriotism, enshrined their heroes and stood by the results of their acts. And if I know them at all they have only contempt for truckling and self-effacing humility.

IS EVERYTHING GOING TO BE ALL RIGHT?

"Everything's going to be all right," is the name of a popular radio number.

When you have done the best that you can, but you feel that your best is not as good as you wish it, it is a relief to be told that "everything's going to be all right."

However, there are persons who are always trying to get someone to do the thing they want done; and that is the sort of argument they put up.

"Oh, come on; everything's going to be all right," they say; but that is as far as their responsibility goes in the matter—just enough persuasion to get you to do something you believe to be wrong.

When you hear these words you had better think twice. Is it "going to be all right"?

If your parents have taught you to avoid certain things, young man or young woman, don't be too sure when the world says: "Oh, it is going to be all right." Too many girls and boys have awakened to the fact that things that are not right can't always be smoothed by idle words.
